THAW PREFERS CELL TO FREEDOM AND A DEPORTATION RISK

Victory of Counsel in Quashing the Habeas Corpus Writ Leaves Case in Dull and Uninteresting Phase

MAY STAY IN JAIL UNTIL TRIAL DURING OCTOBER

Attorney Employed by Thaw Family to Represent "Gentleman Roger" Thompson Springs Surprise in Case

(By Associated Press.)

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 28.—Louis St. Laurent, retained by the Thaw family to defend "Gentleman Roger" Thompson, left Sherbrooke today for Quebec in an attempt to head off William Travers Jerome, who went to Quebec yesterday in an endeavor to enlist the aid of the provincial premier in efforts to deport Thaw. It was said St. Laurent had messages from prominent liberal politicians here urging the premier not to interfere.

Thaw devoted his day to letter writing. The court victory of his lawyers yesterday in quashing their own writ of habeas corpus and having Thaw recommitted to jail means either that he will remain there until tried in October or that New York, outflanked to date in legal skirmishes, must make some new move looking to his liberation and seizure by the immigration authorities for deportation.

William Travers Jerome conferred with the provisional attorney general seeking some means of obtaining authority for releasing Thaw. Other counsel for New York continued their efforts to persuade Alexis DuPuis, a magistrate at Coaticook, to withdraw the commitment which he issued after Thaw's arrest here twelve days ago and on which the fugitive is held.

Thaw, content to stay in jail, rather than take any chances of being deported either to Vermont, New Hampshire, or New York, by ill advised liberty, planned a quiet day in his cell.

MRS. E. H. WILSON DIES AS RESULT OF FALL

Well Known Atlanta Woman Was Injured Fatally Thursday Morning

Mrs. E. M. Wilson, aged sixty-eight years, of apartment 4, Baltimore block, Peachtree and Spring streets, was so seriously injured in a fall down a flight of stairs at her home at 8 o'clock Thursday morning that she died early during the afternoon in the Grady hospital. The aged woman sustained a fracture of the skull and never regained consciousness from the time of the accident until she passed away.

Mrs. Wilson is survived by a sister, Mrs. E. G. Taylor, who was with her at the time of the accident, and a brother, Mrs. H. G. Anderson, with whom she was living in Baltimore block. Mrs. Taylor was at the bedside when the end came.

Mrs. Wilson had just arisen when the accident happened. She was making her way down the stairs and had proceeded but a few steps when her feet became entangled in her dress and she plunged headlong to the lower floor. Mrs. Taylor went to her rescue and found her insensible. Her head had struck a stone jar in the fall.

Dr. H. H. Hines was summoned and attempted to bring her back to consciousness. When he failed he called a city hospital ambulance and she was taken to that institution. No bones were broken in the fall, attaches of the hospital declared after an examination.

Wilson to Arrange Mexican Armistice?

Rumor Circulated in Washington Says Huerta Has Yielded Practically All of Demands Made by United States and Will Let Wilson Act as Sponsor in Arranging Armistice, Pending Constitutional Election of Mexic Chief

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—A rumor is in circulation here that the Huerta crowd in Mexico has yielded practically everything President Wilson has demanded, and that the president will act as sponsor in the business of arranging an armistice pending a constitutional election of president of Mexico.

No official confirmation of this rumor can be secured in Washington. All authorities having heard of it, although there is an atmosphere of expectancy, indicating that the administration has reason to be looking for information of a definite character from Mexico very soon.

THE RIGHT MAN AT THE HELM

Steerage Rushes Guards As Big Imperator Blazes

Second Officer Perishes Fighting Fire That Imperiled Lives of Over 2,000 on World's Biggest Vessel

Crew Guides Panic-Stricken Passengers to Safety Before Starting Battle With Flames, Powerless Without Help

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The steamship Imperator, largest vessel afloat, was swept by fire early today as she lay at her dock in Hoboken, with her crew and 1,131 steerage passengers aboard.

Second Officer Herman Gobrecht, who led the crew into the hold to fight the flames, was cut off from his men, enveloped in a cloud of smoke and suffocated. His body was found an hour afterwards, untouched by fire, and brought ashore.

A fleet of fire fighting craft augmented by apparatus on shore surrounded the ship and poured tons of water into her hold. When the fire was checked at 8 o'clock the great vessel had listed 15 degrees.

STEERAGE PANIC STRICKEN.

The small army in the steerage, aroused from their sleep by the crackling of flames rushed panic-stricken for the pier, where most of them spent the night huddled in discomfort at the shore end of the pier.

None of the steerage passengers had been inspected by the customs or health authorities. Because of this, armed guards surrounded them. The immigration authorities rushed them to Ellis island at the earliest possible moment this forenoon.

The great ship was dark, with all aboard asleep save the watch officers, when smoke, ascending from the provision room, was discovered.

A quiet alarm was sounded. Commodore Ruesser, commander-in-chief of the vessel, was among the first to respond. The crew of 1,180 men were in their places within a minute. The complex fire fighting apparatus of the vessel was set in motion. Every compartment was ordered closed except those which it was necessary to leave open for the steerage passengers to get ashore.

When the steerage passengers stampeded toward the deck, ships officers and scores of the crew lined up along the route to safety, guiding the terror-stricken men and women to the pier. Then, with the ship clear, the entire force turned its hand to extinguishing the flames.

For three-quarters of an hour they fought the fire with only the Imperator's own apparatus. Then a general alarm was sounded.

OFFICER LOSES LIFE.

In the first sharp skirmish with the flames, Second Officer Herman Gobrecht and Seaman Otto Stumpf, caught in the withering breath of a sheath of flame, were cut off from the door by which they had entered. Their companions were driven back to open air. Although they stormed the flames again and again, the wall of smoke kept them from rescuing Gobrecht and Stumpf. When the fire was checked their bodies were found.

STUMPF REVIVED.

The wisp of smoke curling into the second cabin when the flames were first discovered had by this time grown to a cloud. Through this cloud the Hoboken firemen rushed, dragging their hose. The dining saloon of the second cabin suffered the greatest damage from smoke and the firemen's passage. The handsome appointments of the saloon were a wreck when the smoke cleared away.

Despite the work of additional firemen the flames gained headway. A tug steaming down the river roused the water front with its siren. Fire boats from New York a fleet of tugs and another battery of fire engines from Hoboken rushed to the pier.

A dozen tugs stood by to tow the ship out to midstream as the flames threatened momentarily at their height to destroy it. Preparations were made to cut the liner's moorings when the fire boats began pumping water into the hold.

With fifty streams playing hundreds of tons of water on the fire every minute the flames lost heart and the Imperator began to list. At 5 o'clock there were only two streams on the blaze and it was practicaly extinguished.

Careful examination will be required to establish the amount of damage the Imperator suffered. It was believed somebody's carelessness was responsible for the fire.

One thousand longshoremen employed by the Hamburg-American line, the Imperator's owners, went on strike 48 hours before the vessel's arrival. Their places were filled by men from Brooklyn docks and the strikers were told that they would not be taken back.

Officers of the line said, however, that they believed the strike was in no way connected with the fire. Somebody's carelessness, they thought, had been responsible.

SUFFERED OTHER MISHAPS.

The Imperator has suffered several mishaps, more or less serious, since her launching May 23, 1912.

Her maiden trip was postponed from month to month, first because she ran aground while on her way to Hamburg and then because of trouble with heer turbines.

A benzine explosion occurred on board the vessel April 24, which caused the death of two men and serious injury to six others. Reports in May from Hamburg said the Imperator had been gravely damaged by vandals.

WILL SAIL SATURDAY.

It was estimated the damage to the vessel would not be great, but most of her supplies was destroyed. It was announced the Imperator would sail Saturday.

IN SECRET SESSION COMMITTEE OUTLINES SPEER PROBE PLANS

Manner of Procedure in Investigation Authorized by House Mapped Out Behind Closed Doors

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon the judiciary committee of the house met behind closed doors to outline a plan of procedure with reference to the preliminary investigation of Judge Emory Speer's official conduct. It was expected that Chairman Clayton would have an announcement to make after the meeting adjourned.

The general understanding his morning, prior to the meeting, was the committee will decide definitely to take testimony in Georgia through a subcommittee, but that no move in this direction will be made until "frost forms on the pumpkin vines."

The sub-committee, however, will be directed to proceed immediately with an analysis and classification of the charges contained in the special examiner's report, so that the taking of testimony will be expedited and the committee enabled to formulate a report for the next session of congress.

MRS. GODBEE GIVEN PRELIMINARY HEARING

When Mrs. Godbee was first brought in her attorneys were not present. Asked if she had anything to say she replied that she could say nothing until her lawyers appeared.

They were finally found and the hearing proceeded. There are large crowds here from Augusta and Waynesboro, where the deceased and the defendant have many relatives.

LARGE FORTUNE INCOMES TO GET HEAVIER TAXES

Threatened Break Over Tariff Bill Avoided by Revision Agreement

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—An insurgent movement among Democratic senators that threatened to break party lines on the income tax was headed off by the leaders today by an agreement to revise the tariff bill so as to levy a heavier tax on the incomes from large fortunes.

Insurgent leaders began with a demand for a party conference and claimed the support of twenty-seven Democratic senators of the fifty in the senate in support of an increase in the tax. They finally agreed to withdraw their demand for a special caucus but the question will be taken up in a party conference tomorrow or Saturday.

It is understood that Democratic leaders have agreed to a revision of the income tax section, so that the extra tax on incomes of more than $100,000 will be 6 per cent, with an increase reaching 10 per cent on incomes of half a million dollars. The bill as it now stands provides only 3 per cent tax above $100,000. The present rates on incomes between $20,000 and $100,000 also will be increased.

The agreement to redraft the bill came after Senator Vardaman left the party ranks and voted for Senator LaFollette's amendment to increase the rates, and Senators Reed, Thompson and Ashurst had threatened to take similar action.

Senator McCumber's amendment to start the tax at incomes of $1,000 and increasing to 7 1-2 per cent on $100,000 and over, was defeated without a roll call, as was a similar one by Senator Poindexter.

ATLANTA IS AFTER EDITORS' CONVENTION

Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta convention bureau, is in correspondence with George Schlosser, secretary of the National Editors' association, with a view to bringing the organization here for its convention in 1914.

A recent letter from the secretary of the association in Sioux Falls, S. D., states that already Richmond, Va., and Houston, Tex., are bidders for the large gathering, and intimates that Atlanta will have to do some real hustling to defeat her competitors.

Mr. Houser expects to get in touch with local members of the association within a few days and make formal arrangements for a bid that will insure success in bringing the gathering here.

COLONEL POMEROY TO RESIGN HIS COMMAND

Speculation Rife as to His Successor at Head of Fifth Regiment

Local military circles are considerably agog over the possible successor of Coloney E. E. Pomeroy, commander of the Fifth regiment of the national guard of Georgia.

During the last few days it has become definitely known that Colonel Pomeroy, who has been in the service for over fifteen years, will retire shortly from the military life of the state, thereby cerating a vacancy that will be much sought after by field and line officers.

He is now on a leave of absence until September 15, and it is at the expiration of that time that his resignation is expected to be tendered, effective at once.

Colonel Pomeroy was out of the city Thursday and it was learned from his office in the Atlanta National bank building, that he would not return until Sunday. It was therefore impossible to get a statement from him in regard to the impending action on his part—for what reasons he was retiring or any explanation that he would care to make public.

Aside from the acknowledged fact that Colonel Pomeroy will relinquish his high office within a short while, nothing else definite is known, save that a general shake-up in the regiment is expected to follow the colonel's action. Officers of the regiment are already beginning to speculate not only as to who will be elected colonel, but as to what officers will be advanced to places above them when the commanding office is filled. There will be majors and possibly a lieutenant colonel to choose, which will make military politics hum for a while.

The successor to Colonel Pomeroy and other officers under him will be chosen by election, the field officers and line officers making the selection.

That the resignation of this popular officer will be received with genuine regret by every man in the Fifth regiment is an acqnowledged fact, and it is certain that could he be induced to change his mind and remain at the head of "Atlanta's Own," line and field officers alike would unite in an attempt to keep him there.

REAPPOINTMENT OF MERCER IS IN DOUBT

Rumored That Governor Slaton Will Name Charles I. Davis Game Warden

Governor Slaton may not reappoint Jesse E. Mercer, of Fitzgerlad, to the position of state game and fish commissioner, an office which Mr. Mercer has filled with credit to both himself and the state. It is persistently rumored around the capitol that Governor Slaton has about decided to appoint his personal friend, Charles I. Davis, of Warm Springs, to succeed Mr. Mercer.

So much pressure has been brought to bear upon the governor in behalf of Mr. Mercer from all sections of the state, that Governor Slaton has, it is said, promised that he will not definitely decide this appointment until some time in October.

Mr. Mercer's term expires on September 1, but under the law he will remain in office until his successor is appointed and qualifies.

In the meantime the friends of Mr. Mercer will make a strong effort to demonstrate to the governor that he has made a conscientious and efficient official, and has won the commendation of all true sportsmen and others who desire to see the game and fish of the state properly protected.

Senor Gamboa, foreign [illegible] ter, pointed out that the American [illegible] mand for elimination of Huerta would be met by a provision of the Mexican constitution which makes a provisional president ineligible to re-election. The Washington government, however, desires assurance more definite.

John Lind was authorized to return to Mexico City from Vera Cruz, "if, in his discretion, it seemed advisable." It is believed here he will go and that negotiations principally over Huerta's retirement may be reopened.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan regarded the situation as "encouraging" and indicated they expected some change in the attitude at Mexico City.

American consular offices throughout Mexico were rounding up Americans, advising them to leave Mexico.

Major General Wood was to take personal charge of any military measures to effect strict neutrality.

Senor Gamboa's note of August 26 officially had not been received here early today, but upon a summary transmitted by John Lind, administration officials declared the United States would not yield on its demand that Victoriano Huerta should not be a candidate for the Mexico presidency.

MEXICAN CONSTITUTION QUOTED.

Senor Gamboa calls attention to a clause in the Mexican constitution which prohibits a provisional president from succeeding himself, and charges that the United States was oversuspicious in thinking that Huerta would enter the race. Administration officials here in answer to the point declared that to apply that clause of the constitution to Huerta was in fact a recognition of Huerta as the constitutionally chosen provisional president, a circumstance they consider contradicted by irregularities.

There is, in the view of administration officials here, also no guarantee that Huerta does not intend resigning so that he might become a candidate. Officials called attention to what they construe as a flat declaration that Huerta intends to be a candidate, constitutional barriers notwithstanding. They point to the following paragraph in Senor Gamboa's first reply, saying: "The request that General Victoriano Huerta should agree not to appear as a candidate for the presidency in the coming election cannot be taken into consideration, because, aside from its strangeand unwarranted character, there is a risk that the same might be interpreted as a matter of personal dislike. This point can be only decided by Mex-

Later Day Sayings of Benjamin Franklin

One of the principal things which Dr. Benjamin Franklin urged upon the youth of his day as a necessity to success was "tranquility," and he thus admonished them in his writings: "Be not disturbed at trifles, nor at accidents common and unavoidable."

In The Journal Want Columns is found the very greatest help to tranquility, for there is scarcely an exigency that can arise that The Journal Want Ads are not equal to. The clerk or stenographer or household helper, or, in fact, any worker, can feel perfectly tranquil as to his future if he or she but remembers that opportunities without number are to be found in Journal Want Ads.

JONES AS POSTMASTER CONFIRMED BY SENATE

Hugh L. McKee Says He Is Ready to Turn Over Affairs to His Successor

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—Confirmed without opposition by the senate yesterday afternoon, Bolling H. Jones will be commissioned as postmaster at Atlanta by President Wilson just as soon as his bond has been approved by the postoffice department. It may require a week or ten days to complete this formality, though it is understood that Mr. Jones has his bond ready now.

The Atlanta postmaster is bonded for $135,000, and it is customary for the department to accept either a surety or a satisfactory personal bond.

When Mr. Jones qualifies as postmaster, Hugh L. McKee will automatically retire from office, although his four-year term for which he was originally appointed by President Taft does not expire until January 6, next year.

The confirmation in the United States senate Wednesday of President Wilson's nomination of Bolling H. Jones as postmaster at Atlanta automatically removes Hugh L. McKee, the present incumbent. The latter announced that the affairs of his office are in good shape and that he is ready at any time to make way for his successor.

As soon as Mr. Jones receives the formal authority and makes the required bond he will take possession of his office. Neither he nor Mr. McKee has been formally notified of the confirmation.

Mr. Jones announces that his will be a business administration of the postoffice in which politics will not interfere.

TO LIST ALL ELIGIBLES FOR SMALL POSTOFFICES

Postoffice Department Will Have Records of All Applicants Examined

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The gigantic task of making a list of eligibles for all of the fourth class postoffices in the United States with salaries of less than $180 a year has been undertaken by the postoffice department under the general supervision of Chief Postoffice Inspector Joe P. Johnston. There are 992 of these offices in the Atlanta division, of which 394 are in Georgia and 312 in Florida and 256 in South Carolina. The work in this immediate section will be in direct charge of Postoffice Inspector R. E. Barry, of Atlanta, who will have the help of twenty-one assistant inspectors.

No more will be made by the board making a list of eligible for fourth class offices paying more than $180 a year until congress supplies the civil service commission with funds to conduct the work. Of this class of offices there are 437 in Georgia.

Under the rules that have been agreed upon by the civil service commission relating to the lesser important fourth class postoffices, the inspectors will visit each of the postoffices and there make a personal investigation of the records and qualifications of the applicants for the postmastership. They will then certify to the department the names of three eligibles, from among whom the department will name a postmaster.

Speer Case Recalls Speech of Bartlett Made in 1902

At That Time Georgia Congressman Drew Deadly Parallel Between Cost of Administering Bankrupt Estates in Northern and Southern Districts of Georgia.

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—As long ago as June 17, 1902, the seemingly extravagant cost of administering bankrupt estates in the southern district of Georgia was the subject of remark in the United States congress. Congressman Charles L. Bartlett, who is now the dean of the Georgia delegation, drew a deadly parallel between the cost of administering estates in the northern district of Georgia, presided over by Judge William T. Newman, and in the southern district, presided over by Judge Emory Speer. He was discussing the national bankruptcy law.

Judge Bartlett's speech in 1902 is especially interesting at this time, because some of the charges which may furnish a basis for the impeachment of Judge Speer is that bankrupt estates in his court have been dissipated, through excessive fees, commissions and extravagant administration.

Inviting attention to the administration of the bankruptcy law in Georgia, Judge Bartlett read a table taken from the attorney general's report.

A BIG DIFFERENCE.

"It will be observed," said Judge Bartlett, "from this statement that in the northern district of Georgia, for paying out in dividends and priorities in voluntary cases, the sum of $56,690.50, the expenses were $11,160.71, while in the southern district for paying out the sum of $9,387.86, the expenses were $6,497.25, ten times as great pro rata as in the northern district.

"It will be further noticed that for paying out the sum of $39,637.60 in involuntary cases in the northern district of Georgia the expenses were $1,752.10, while the southern district of Georgia for paying out the sum of $2,750.85 in involuntary cases the expenses were $2,385.55."

Congressman John Wesley Gaines, of Tennessee, interrupted Judge Bartlett at this point with the following question:

"I would like to ask the gentleman how he accounts for the wide difference in the cost of administration of the two districts?"

"I cannot, on any other ground, account for it except that there are judges who do not regard the law and who divide up the estates of defunct debtors to receivers and officers of the court," replied Judge Bartlett.

A FURTHER ILLUSTRATION.

"I have here an illustration from the state of Georgia, taking the two districts, one in the northern and the other in the southern. The last report of the attorney general shows that the administration of one is economical, and in the other that the fees, commissions, etc., are extravagant.

"In the southern district of Georgia, where I live, the district court is presided over by Emory Speer. I want to call attention to the report of the attorney general for 1901. That there, in cases of voluntary bankruptcy, the sum of $9,000 was paid out to creditors in dividends and to pay priorities over $9,000, and in order to pay out that amount of money to the creditors the officials of the court and receivers under Judge Speer were paid over $6,000 for fees, commissions and expenses.

"In the very same state, amongst the same people, the same character of cases, the same character of claims, and the same kind of people to administer them, in the northern district the expenses amounted to four and one-half percent in involuntary cases and sixteen and one-third per cent in involuntary cases, and in the other, the southern district, presided over by Emory Speer they amounted to 47 per cent in cases of involuntary and forty-one per cent in voluntary bankruptcy."

QUITMAN NEGROES CUT, SHOOT, CARVE, SCRAP

Wave of Crime Sweeps Over Community and Many Arrests Are Made

QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 28.—The finding of an unknown negro dead in the old county fair grounds this morning, shot through the heart, is the last and worst of a series of shootings and cuttings among local negroes within the last few days. The negro found this morning arrived here yesterday afternoon with a big roll of bills. A skin game, it is said was conducted at the deserted park last night in which the visiting negro won all of a local negro's money. The local negro, Kid Lewis, is said to have shot the visitor and killed him. No attempt was made to conceal the body and this morning sheriff Wade arrested Lewis and others who participated in the game.

Night before last a country negro, Man Peterson, was awakened by an intruder in his room. He pursued another man, Ben Jenkins, and the latter waylaid him as he came down the road and stabbed him almost to death. The same night Attaway Miller, a Quitman negro, had a quarrel with his sister-in-law and shot her. While he was thus engaged his wife, Sarey Miller, was occupied with an entirely different quarrel in another house and carved another woman almost to pieces with a razor. Attaway was arrested but Sarey escaped to the woods and is in hiding.

Secretary Daniels Rode in Navy Auto When Wilson Spoke

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Secretary Daniels has tried out many naval craft since he described the editorial chair to direct the sea-fighting forces of the nation, but he announced today that never again would he cruise in a navy yard automobile truck. He tried it yesterday. When he climbed into his office today the negro messenger who guards the door of the office of the secretary of the navy apprehensively looked forward to a bad day.

Secretary Daniels, busy with a crowded desk, ordered a taxicab yesterday to take him to the capitol to hear President Wilson read his Mexican message. When he bounced down the steps of the big navy building no taxicab was in sight and he had no time to lose.

"Avast there," he called to the skipper of a passing navy automobile truck who was making toward Pennsylvania avenue. "Stand by, my hearty, and I'll board you. My own craft has slipped its cable."

The secretary of the navy as a passenger in the navy truck reached the capitol just in time to hear the president. The skipper of the craft said today the going wasn't any rougher than usual.

Mr. Daniels' friends are authority for the statement that his injuries are not serious.

CULEBRA CUT TO BE OPENED OCTOBER 5

Steam Shovel Operations Discontinued September 15, Water Enters October 5

(By Associated Press.)
PANAMA, Aug. 28.—All steam shovel operations in the Culebra Cut proper will be discontinued September 15 and between then and October 5, when the water will be admitted, all equipment and other material, including forty-six miles of track, must be out of the nine-mile channel between Gamboa Dike and the Pedro Miguel lock.

The shovels formerly engaged on the Cucaracha slide have been set to work in a section of the cut which is not yet fully down to grade. All bottom material remaining after September 15 will be drilled and blasted preparatory to its removal by dredges.

On August 1 there remained to be removed 998,986 cubic yards inside the theoretical canal prism and the steam shovel operating between that date and September 15, it is estimated, will reduce the amount to 650,00 yards, which will be removed later by the dredges. This is exclusive of all slide excavations and inclines.

Water will be admitted to Culebra Cut under this arrangement October 5, five days in advance of the date set for the destruction of Gamboa dike. For this purpose four twenty-inch pipes extending underneath the dike and now used for pumping the draining water out, will be employed. It is estimated that it would take seventeen days to fill the canal to the level of the dike by this method. "Therefore water will be admitted during a five-day period so that it may act as a cushion against the sides of the dike. The blast on October 10 is expected to cause a small opening in the barrier which will gradually increase in size until a considerable entrance flows out and completes the work of filling it.

STRICT MILITIA RULES OR NO FEDERAL FUNDS

No Funds Unless Organization Is Same as That of the Regular Army

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Federal funds are not to be used after January 1 next for the organized militia of the states unless the citizen soldiery complies with the law which declares their organizations "shall be the same as that which is now or may hereafter be prescribed for the regular army United States."

This order was issued by the war department today. The law was passed several years ago and Secretary Garrison believes that "a sufficient time has now elapsed to enable the states to more definitely conform in organization to the regular army."

"If at any time the number of companies in a complete regiment falls below twelve, exclusive of the machine gun company," says the order, "the deficiency may be replaced within six months, or the regimental organization be considered as permanently abandoned, the officers and enlisted men of the regimental headquarters, the headquarters detachment, the mounted scouts and orderlies, the machine gun company, the band and one battalion headquarters being mustered out or otherwise disposed of."

This principle of replacing missing companies within six months applies alike to infantry, cavalry and field artillery.

CLAYTON'S FRIENDS T OARGUE HIS CASE

Seating of Senate Appointee Will Take Long Consideration by Committee

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Permission has been obtained by the friends of Henry D. Clayton, appointed senator from Alabama by the governor of that state, to make additional arguments before the senate privileges and election committee, notwithstanding the elaborate presentation of his case to the committee last night by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and R. B. Evans, legal adviser to Governor O'Neal.

The committee will take some time for consideration of the question, inasmuch as the manner of filling every vacancy in the senate membership possibly as late as 1921 depends upon the outcome. Supporters of Mr. Clayton contend that under the new direct election amendment, vacancies in the terms of senators chosen at the time the amendment went into effect this year must be filled by selections by the state legislatures and not by direct elections at the polls.

In the case of the term of Senator-elect Broussard, of Louisiana, this would call for the legislature to fill a vacancy in his term of office, should one occur before 1921, notwithstanding the people of the state will elect a successor to Senator Brandegee, of Louisiana, in 1918. They also contend the Maryland legislature must elect a senator to fill out the term of the late Senator Rayner, now occupied by appointment by Senator Jackson.

It is figured that five seats will fall vacant before 1918 and will be filled according to the decision of the senate, acting upon the suggestion of the committee on privileges and elections in the Clayton case.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INVITED TO EXHIBIT

First Municipality Asked to Participate in City Exposition at Lyons, France

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The District of Columbia as the seatof government for the United States is the first municipality in this country to receive an invitation to participate in the Lyons, France, international Modern city exposition to be held in May next year. The invitation was extended today by William M. Fullerton, special commissioner of the exposition, who is in the United States to interest cities in all parts of the country in the project, which aims to demonstrate the progress made by modern cities throughout the world.

As the District of Columbia would be dependent upon congress for an appropriation to enable the capital city to be represented at the exhibit, the district commissioners were unable formally to accept the invitation which Mr. Fullerton extended. An effort will be made, however, to prevail upon congress to authorize the expenditure of a sum necessary to have Washington take part.

RESERVATION LANDS OFFERED FOR LEASE

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Government lands in the extensive tract of 12,000 acres in the Osage reservation in Oklahoma were offered for lease today by the interior department through Cato Sells, Indian commissioner. The leases will be for tracts of form 40 to 160 acres, and bidders for the privilege of boring holes in search of oil or gas will be compelled to make sealed proposals. Commissioner Sells incidentally remarks that the lands lie close to large wells now in operation "which now have natural daily flow of from 500 to 1,000 barrels."

"The determination to lease the lands in small tracts," said Mr. Sells, "will permit the independent producer of small means to enter the bidding and to compete with the wealthy corporations, which they could not do if the land was to be leased in large areas."

The bids will be opened September 2 at Pawhuska.

MONUMENT UNVEILED TO MEMORY OF COL. SANDERS

Gainesville Honors Gallant Confederate Officer—Monument on Federal Ground

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 28.—Wednesday in Gainesville there was unveiled on the north lawn of the handsome postoffice the first memorial to a Confederate soldier ever erected by a chapter of the Children of the Confederacy. The memorial also bears the unique distinction of being the only Confederate monument standing on federal ground.

The memorial was erected by the C. C. Sanders chapter, Children of Confederacy, in memory of the late Colonel C. C. Sanders, who was one of the bravest of Confederate soldiers and who for fifty years was one of the most prominent bankers and promoters in north Georgia, and a well known citizen of Georgia.

The life size statue represents Colonel Sanders dressed in the Confederate uniform of a colonel, sitting in a chair with the face looking toward the south and the hunting, entering the business center of the town, both of which he loved and served so faithfully. It rests on a pedestal supported by four marble columns. Directly back of the statue and in the center of the four columns is a drinking fountain.

On the front of the pedestal is carved "Colonel C. Sanders, 1840-1908, soldier, patriot, colonel 24th Georgia regiment volunteers infantry, first corps, army of northern Virginia, C. S. A." and at the side facing the main drive of the postoffice is the inscription, Erected by the C. C. Sanders hapter, Children of Confederacy."

PRE-CANCELLED POSTAGE STAMPS TO BE SOLD

After September 1 Public May Use Stamps Bearing Name of Local Postoffice

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Postmaster General Burleson today signed an order which provides that pre-cancelled postage stamps may be sold to the public on and after September 1. Pre-cancelled stamps have printed on them the name of the postoffice at which they are sold. Such stamps will be valid for postage on second, third and fourth class mail—newspapers and magazines mailed by the public, books and other printed matter, and merchandise od parcel post matter.

The stamps will be recognized only at the office named on them.

By the use of pre-cancelled stamps not only will the transportation and delivery of mail bearing them be expedited, but it is estimated that the government will save in expense of labor in cancellation $250,000 a year.

"I have weighed carefully," said Postmaster General Burleson today, "the question as to whether the extension of the use of pre-cancelled stamps would result in loss to the postal revenues through the re-use or fraudulent use of such stamps. I am convinced that the loss would be negligible as compared with the great saving."

TIMBER LOSS FROM FLAMES WAS SMALL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Attributing it to the present organization of the fire fighting force in the forests of the country, the forest service today declared that loss from flames among growing timber so far this year had been kept to a minimum.

It based its findings on reports from the states which have a co-operative arrangement with the federal government. Under the agreement the states are permitted to draw on the federal treasury for funds for fire fighting whenever unusual conditions arise.

Gold Fish Dropped In Well Year Ago Restored to Owner

MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 28.—A year ago last May little Florine Strong, while changing the water in her globe of gold fish, dropped a tiny one into the well and grieved over what she thought must be its watery grave.

A few days ago the well was cleaned out, and the gold fish, grown two inches or more in length, was restored to its owner. It died in a few hours on account of the unaccustomed heat.

GIRLS TO TAKE STAND AGAINST CAMINETTI

Will Tell of Trip to Reno and Life in Bungalow in That City

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—The exciting stage was expected to be reached today in the trial of Drew F. Caminetti for violation of the Mann act, with the summoning to the witness stand of Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, who accompanied Maury I. Diggs and Caminetti on their trip to Reno, Nev. In anticipation of a rehearsal of the sensational stories told by the young women at the recent trial of Diggs, which resulted in his conviction, scores of the curious filled the court room this morning.

Before the advent of the two star witnesses the prosecution intended to introduce the testimony of Reno police officers, a hotel clerk and Martin Beasley, uncle of the Warrington girl, regarding the interruption of the party's sojourn in a Reno bungalow.

Whatever the testimony of Lola Norris may be, Caminetti has announced he will not dispute it. The prosecution has stated that it will attempt to prove that Miss Norris was pure until she met Caminetti and that it was in Reno that she yielded after promises of marriage were made to her.

Miss Norris was expected to tell substantially the same narrative as in the Diggs trial.

Thus far the wife, children and mother of Caminetti have not appeared in the court room.

MINING RIGHTS TO LAND IN FULTON BRING SUIT

Litigation Starts Over 86 Acres Lying Near the DeKalb County Line

A suit over mining and mineral rights on land in Fulton county was filed in the superior court Thursday.

In 1911 William and George McKenzie purchased from Thomas L. English a tract containing 86 acres in the 216th land lot of Fulton county, near the DeKalb county line.

The titles were examined, and although a deed made years ago was missing, they were considered excellent.

Now it seems that prior to 1874 P. H. Randall, who then owned the land, sold it, but reserved the mining and mineral rights.

The land passed through many hands in the years that followed, but since its purchase by the McKenzies the old deed reserving the mining rights has been unearthed.

Accordingly they have entered suit against the heirs of P. H. Randall, who include W. H., P. H., H. G. and H. I. Randall and others. The petitioners ask that the heirs be restrained from taking advantages of the mining rights, and the court has granted a temporary order. The McKenzies also petition the court to decide upon the value of the mining rights on the property, and to force the heirs to deed them to the owners of the land itself. Incidentally the suit alleges that the land has no mining or mineral value.

ROMANS TO FORM FIELD ARTILLERY COMPANY

ROME, Ga., Aug. 28.—On Friday evening a preliminary meeting of young men interested in the formation of a battery of field artillery will be held in Rome, with Barry Wright, former captain of the Rome Light Guards, presiding.

Rome has had no military company for the last seven years, and there is much enthusiasm over the project, which, if successful, will give the state a battalion of artillery, with batteries at Rome, Savannah and Atlanta.

The organization will be known as the Cherokee Artillery in honor of a famous battery that fought through the war, under the command of Captain Max Von Den Corput, who died recently in Atlanta.

Despite Death Sentence Frank Sleeps Nine Hours

Man Convicted for Murder of Mary Phagan Will Not Make Public Reply to Solicitor Dorsey's Arraignment—Lawyers Advise Silence—Mrs. Rae Frank Bids Son Farewell and Leaves for Brooklyn

Leo M. Frank, under sentence of death for the murder of Mary Phagan, slept nine hours in his cell in the Fulton county tower Wednesday night. He arose shortly after 7 o'clock, took his bath, went through his usual calesthenic exercises and ate a late breakfast which was brought him by his father-in-law, Emil Selig, a few minutes before 9 o'clock.

It was learned Thursday that there is little probability of Frank's making public any statement in reply to the argument of Solicitor General Dorsey at the trial.

His attorneys have counseled silence on the case, and Frank is expected to acquiesce to their wishes in the matter. No move of any sort is expected from the defense until the argument on October 4 before Judge L. S. Roan on the motion for a new trial. Attorney L. Z. Rosser is already at work preparing the motion.

Frank's prosecutor, Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, is resting from his arduous labors of the past four months and is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Mr. Dorsey has decided not to place the name of James Conley, Frank's negro accuser, before the present grand jury, which holds its final meeting on Friday. A bill charging Conley with being an accessory after the fact of Mary Phagan's murder, will, however, be among the first bills to be presented to the new grand jury, which will be empannelled next Tuesday by Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court.

Solicitor Dorsey is receiving hundreds of congratulatory telegrams and letters from people all over the state. He is replying to as many of them as he can, and in his replies he is giving much credit for the state's victory to his associate, Frank A. Hooper; to Detectives Starnes and Campell, who have worked so faithfully on the case, and to Detective Bass Rosser, who had charge of the securing of the character witnesses against Frank.

Mrs. Rea Frank, mother of the man found guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan and sentenced to die on the gallows for the crime October 10, will leave for her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., Thursday afternoon to be at the bedside of her husband, who is an invalid.

Mrs. Frank visited her son in the Tower during the morning and with cheering words kissed him goodbye. She has been here since the beginning of the trial and sat through the terrific ordeal of four weeks with great fortitude.

MISS JESSIE WILSON THROWN WHILE RIDING

Daughter of President Unconscious by Road-Side for More Than Half Hour

(By Associated Press.)

PLAINFIELD, N. H., Aug. 28.—Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, while riding near here late yesterday, was thrown from her horse and lay unconscious for more than half an hour on the roadside.

She was found there by Dr. Charles W. Worthen, of White River Junction, who applied remedies and restored her to consciousness. Later Miss Wilson was taken to a house nearby and the Cornish home of President Wilson was notified by telephone. Her injuries are not believed to be serious.

Miss Wilson's fiancé, Francis B. Sayre, with whom she had started for a ride, had gone ahead of her and knew nothing of the accident until the riderless horse dashed past him.

The scene of the accident was on the New Hampshire side of the Connecticut river, just opposite the Vermont town of North Hartland.

CORNISH, N. H., Aug. 28.—At Harlakenden, the Wilson summer home here, it was said last night that Miss Jessie Wilson had received no serious injury, apparently, from the fall from her horse, though she will still suffering somewhat from contusions.

Phillips and Arthur Cox, tenants on the farm of Hamilton Yancey. The indications are that there will be a fine crop in Floyd county as all conditions have been highly favorable for the past month. The first bale had not been in town more than an hour when four others reached here and a busy time is anticipated by the cotton buyers from now on.

BUCKING SELF-STARTER CLIMBS TRAFFIC IN WALTON STREET AND SCATTERS SPLINTERS AND PANIC

A big automobile stood by the curb on Walton street near the north entrance of the Grant building. As developed later, it was "a self-starter."

The owner of the car got in. He turned the button. The engine got underway with a sputter and a roar.

Then something happened.

In the twinkling of an eye the big car jumped backward like some wild beast, butting into the fence around the Healy building, and the owner clawed frantically at the gear-lever. In his excitement he shoved it past the "mutual" notch, as the negro says, and threw it into the "high" notch.

The big car spurned the fence by the Healey building, leaped forward, and began to climb over the traffic in the street and head for the door to the office of Thomson & Lynes, fronting Walton street.

The stenographer of this firm, chancing to glance through the window, saw the big car coming. It was over the curb and on the sidewalk. It was almost on the plate glass window. The stenographer gave vent to a perfectly full-grown shriek and deserted that corner of the office.

By this time the owner of the big car, having in his desperation turned loose the steering wheel, had managed to get the gear lever back in the neutral notch and to put on the emergency brakes.

The big car stopped with its nose against the very door knob of Thomson & Lynes' office, and some minutes later Sam P. Cronheim was busily engaged in assembling by the curbstone the scattered remains of his pretty red motorcycle, while Albert D. Thomson sized up the damage to the left fender of his automobile, which was somewhat torn and disarranged by the bucking car.

LIND MAY RETURN TO MEXICO CITY TO ASK THAT HUERTA RETIRE

can public opinion, when it may be expressed at the polls."

From that, administration officials believe there is every intention to launch Huerta's candidacy while the government ministry is in possessio of some trusted lieutenant. Besides the view is taken that the constitutionalists never would quit unless Huerta were absolutely eliminated. They have insisted that positive announcement by Huerta that he will not be a candidate is a fundamental perquisite to establishment of peace.

Gamboa's statement that the United States failed to consider that paragraph of the Mexican constitution which refers to ineligibility for re-election of provisional presidents, is denied by the administration here. President Wilson is known to have canvassed the Mexican constitution and all its amendments recently, and it is contended that even though Mexico were at peace, the constitutionality of Huerta's provisional presidency is a matter of serious legal dispute.

The point is made that the resignations of Madero and Suarez were forced by duress and on those fundamentals the United States takes the position that it has the right to inquire into the legality of the executive who seeks recognition. The United States will continue to insist that it can extend recognition only to a constitutionally chosen provisional president or his legally elected successor.

Administration officials see a way out of the difficulty if the Mexican congress, convoked of its own accord, should designate a provisional president who would call an election, but there is no doubt that the United States would continue to voice its opposition to Huerta.

Some optimism was gleaned from the withdrawal of the request that the United States and Mexico immediately exchange ambassadors. Senor Gamboa asks now that the embassies be maintained with their staffs, but that they should recognize the ad interim government of Mexico as constitutional.

After an early conference with Secretary Bryan and Chairman Bacon, of the senate foreign relations committee, President Wilson let it be known he felt the situation in Mexico was en- [illegible]ve. [illegible]The full [illegible]erico Gamboa, [illegible]e for foreign [illegible]ister Lind, him [illegible] Lind under date of August 25. [illegible]s made public here today.

In one paragraph the Mexican diplomat quotes Mr. Lind's statement that President Wilson, "if Mexico acts immediately and favorably upon the foregoing bases, bankers assurances that the government of the United States will look with favor upon an immediate loan to Mexico. Answering this, Senor Gamboa begs to be excused from a direct reply for the time being, other than to say that this suggestion appears to be an attractive antecedent appeal to the end that, urged by just interests, Mexico should renounce a right, which incontrovertibly upholds the country at a time when the dignity of the nation is at stake.

"I believe," he adds, "that there are not loans enough to induce those who charged by the law to maintain that dignity, to permit it to be lessened."

In another part of his lengthy note, referring to the insistence of President Wilson that Victoriano Huerta bind himself not to be a candidate for election to the presidency at the October elections, Senor Gamboa quotes from the constitutional articles of the Mexican republic to prove that under these regulations "the secretary of state in charge of the executive power shall not be eligible to the office of either president or vice president when the elections shall take place."

This provision, Senor Gamboa intimates, prevents Huerta from being a candidate.

Mexic Organ Prints All Lind Documents

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28.—All documents connected with John Lind's mission to Mexico City were published today in the Diario Official, the Mexican government organ, in their proper chronological order. They are:

1. The original instructions given to John Lind by President Wilson, which were quoted yesterday in the president's message to congress.

2. The reply to John Lind made by Federico Gamboa, Mexican foreign secretary, August 16, which was published in Washington yesterday contemporaneously with the president's message.

3. The second note presented by John Lind to Federico Gamboa on August 25.

4. Gamboa's reply to this dated August 28.

The two latter documents hitherto have not been made public in the United States.

The documents are accompanied by an article under the caption "our relations with the United States of America," which says:

"Since the strained relations existing between the United States and Mexico began, and in the present government of the Mexican republic with a full understanding of its obligations and its responsibilities, purposed with the greatest possible spirit of conciliation to preserve the national decorum, which was in great danger of suffering a serious and transcendental affront had another line of conduct been adopted from that which was taken under the present circumstances.

"The strictly secret character of the negotiations which are still under way, decided the Mexican government to withhold until today the publication as a whole of the correspondence exchanged between the two chancelleries.

"In view of the fact that the president of the United States has already submitted the case to the knowledge of congress, Washington the constitutional ad interim government believes it to be its duty through its official organ to inform all the inhabitants of the republic of the state of these delicate negotiations.

"Purposely, not a single comment is added, because it believes that the documents are eloquent enough in themselves.

"It confines itself, therefore, to hoping for approval of its acts by the people and in recommending the greatest calm and discretion in order that the decorous and solemn course of the negotiations may not be hindered.

"As a testimonial of the respect in which the executive holds the legislative power of the republic the secretary of foreign relations already has informed the standing committee of the congress of the state of this question up to date.

SECOND NOTE.

The government organ publishes Mr. Lind's second note of August 25. The note is in part:

"Mr. Minister—The president of the United States has not directed me to answer observations contained in your note of August 16, and inasmuch as they are not by me deemed pertinent to the suggestions contained in my instructions communicated to you, I refrain from discussing them.

"In the original instructions of the president of the United States it will be noted that he expressly states 'we wish to act in the circumstances in the spirit of most earnest and disinterested friendship. It is our purpose in whatever we do or propose in this perplexing and distressing situation not only to pay the most scrupulous regard to the sovereignty and independence of Mexico —that we take as a matter of course to which we are bound by every obligation of right and honor—but also to give every possible evidence that we act in the interest of Mexico alone and not in the interest of any person or body of persons who may have personal or property claims in Mexico, which they may feel that they have the right to press. We are seeking to counsel Mexico for her own good and in the interest of her own peace, and not for any other purpose whatever. The United States would debase itself discredited if it had any selfish or ulterior purpose in transactions where the peace, happiness and prosperity of a whole people are involved. It is acting out of friendship for Mexico and not as any selfish interest indicates.'

"As to the course of action suggested by you to be taken by the United States I may say that the president of the United States regards the question of the recognition of the de facto government and of any future government in Mexico as one wholly for the United States to determine. In the exercises of its sovereign rights in this behalf, the United States will not hesitate to suggest the adoption by the de facto government of Mexico seeking recognition especially at a time of serious domestic disturbances, of such course of action as in the judgment of the United States can alone lead to recognition in the future.

"In the present instance, the president of the United States sincerely and ardently believes that the de facto government in Mexico will see in his suggestion the most peaceable plan for serving the highest interests of Mexico and for ensuring the speedy reestablishment of domestic tranquility.

"In that spirit and in the spirit voiced in his original instruction, the president of the United States authorizes me to submit for the consideration of the de facto government in Mexico.

"First—That the election called for October 26, 1913, shall be held in connection with the constitutional laws of Mexico.

"Second—That the president, Huerta, in the manner originally indicated by the president of the United States of America, give the assurances called for in paragraph 'C' of my orginal instructions.

"Third—That the remaining propositions contained in my original instructions shall be taken up later, but speedily and resolved as circumstances permit, and in the spirit of their proposals.

"The president of the United States America further authorizes me to say that if the de facto government of Mexico at once acts favorably upon theforegoing suggestions, then in that event, the president will express to American bankers and their associates, assurances that the government of the United States of America will look with favor upon an immediate extension of a loan sufficient in amount to meet the temporary requirements of the de facto government of Mexico."

Mr. Lind says the propositions are "submitted in the same spirit and to the same end" as the original ones, but in a more restricted form so that the de facto government might "act thereon without requiring the co-operation or concurrence of any other factor in the situation."

Concluding Mr. Lind says:

"Permit me also, Mr. Minister, in submitting this final suggestion from the president of the United States to assure you of my deep personal obligations, and of my innermost sense of appreciation of the numerous evidences of personal good will of which I have been the recipient at the hands of your excellency, of individual citizens of the city of Mexico and of the provisional president."

Wilson Communicates With Secretary of War

(By Associated Press.)

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 28.—Secretary of War Garrison received a long telegram from President Wilson last night in which the president told the secretary not to let anything interfere with his trip of inspection as planned. The remainder of the telegram was not made public, but is said to have had to do with Mexican developments and with steps already taken for the further mobilization of troops on the Mexican border.

Should the present itinerary of Secretary Garrison be carried out he will visit after leaving Omaha forts at St. Faul, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Columbus in turn, reaching home September 4.

London Says Wilson Message "Born of Travail of His Soul"

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Commenting on the Mexican situation today, the Pall Mall Gazette says:

"We fully understand that President Wilson's message is borne off the travail of his soul. He is a good and devout man earnestly desirous of the peace and justice, but on him rests the responsibility for protecting not only the interests of the United States in Mexico, but the lives of some thousands of American citizens who have settled there.

"The application of moral force consists in urging all the citizens of the United States in Mexico to abandon their occupations and to clear out of the country and in proposing measures which must rest on physical force for preventing the entry of arms and munition into the country either for provisional President Huerta or for the rebels. We shall watch the result of the steady pressure of moral force with much interest, but without much belief in its success.

"We have preached many times during these past troubled months that physical force not backed by moral force is both brutal and fatile, but we are compelled also to accept the converse idea that moral force not backed by physical force is no less futile and in consequence is apt to become even more brutal.

"The golden dreamers of The Hague and of the capitol shrink from recognizing a fact so fatal to their theories. We shall see what Mexico has to teach them."

The Evening Standard says:

"The United States, as we have all learned lately, distrusts amateurishness in sports. It knows that if you want to win in any contest you rely on the expert and take care that this expert knows all the details of his business. It is, therefore, rather surprising that the United States does not apply the same admirable principle to the conduct of its public affairs."

Deploring that in America diplomacy is now "left to a group of politicians who on foreign affairs are the most amateurish of amateurs, with a secretary of state at the head of them who is too much occupied in delivering popular lectures to devote all his time to his official duties," the Standard continues in a reference to "the singular inconclusiveness of President Wilson's policy," and says that "provisional President Huerta is the only power capable of restoring order.

President Wilson's only specific, the newspaper continues, is not enough. It urges all American citizens in Mexico to leave their railways, their mines, their factories and their plantations, to be confiscated or occupied by the inhabitants.

"Such is diplomacy when it falls under the control of distinguished amateurs. It has only led the United States into an impasse from which there is no escape except by those forcible measures to which the president resorts so reluctantly, but which he is said to have had to do with Mexican developments and with steps already taken for the further mobilization of troops on the Mexican border.

Germany Will Not Officially Support U. S.

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Efforts have been made to induce Germany to give her active support to President Wilson's Mexican policy and to bring pressure to bear on President Huerta to induce him to retire and permit the holding of new elections. The German government, however, thinks it desirable to afford the president every facility for reaching a settlement, has declined in view of its earlier recognition of Huerta and the attitude of the German colony in Mexico, which has complained to the foreign office here applauding its recognition of Huerta and urging the government to use its influence to cause the United States to do likewise. The government has not submitted this request to Washington.

The German cruiser Vineta is to advance departure on its American cruise in view of Mexican developments.

Italy Thinks U. S. Means Intervention

ROME, Aug. 28.—President Wilson's *message to congress on the Mexican situ*ation has produced a great impression in Italy owing to the large number of Italian setlers in Mexico.

Notwithstanding the expression of friendship of the United States for Mexico, the passage in the message recommending American citizens to leave Mexico is generally interpreted here as a forecast of American intervention in certain eventualities.

An ordinary cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine—a poisonous drug.

Five grains of caffeine is enough to kill a rabbit. Of course that much wouldn't kill a man.

But continual coffee drinking usually produces biliousness, headache, dullness, sleeplessness, irritability and heart agitation. Many people have gotten rid of these troubles by quitting coffee and using

INSTANT POSTUM

It is pure and made entirely of Northern wheat and the juice of Southern sugar-cane. Postum is a genuine food-drink—rich in Nature's phosphates, and contains no drug whatever.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled.)

Instant Postum requires no boiling, but is made instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water with cream and sugar to taste.

Experiment until you get it to suit your taste, then have it always made that way. Made right, Postum has a delightful flavor, resembling high-grade Java.

If coffee don't agree, suppose you leave it off ten days and try Postum.

Drink it instead of coffee.

The rights of women, and reforms in their dress, will be two of the topics of discussion before the Southern Christian Citizenship Conference in Atlanta next month. A provisional program for the conference is announced, and includes the subjects among a number of much interest to the people not only of Georgia but of the whole south. The conference will be held in the auditorium on September 19, 20 and 21, under auspices of the Civic League of America.

"Millions of dollars are being spent on penal and eleemosynary institutions," says the executive committee of the Civic League of America, announcing the purposes of the conference. "But we have been spending little to remedy the conditions which make necessary such institutions."

Therefore the conference will discuss those conditions and seek to suggest the remedies for them.

SUBJECTS LISTED.

Following are the subjects listed on the provisional program:

Education of public opinion and quickening of the popular conscience.

Character development in our public schools.

Co-operation of the family, the church and the state.

Human rights, or the brotherhood of man.

Should we permit our children to continue "reading dirt?"

The modern dance, or from the ballroom to hell.

A censorship of music in connection with indecent songs.

The city for the people.

Municipal reform.

Which is best—the Atlanta, the Birmingham, or the Dayton form of municipal government?

The hand that rocks the cradle.

Our boys and girls, and posterity.

Our unsaved men and women.

Dress reform.

Where the law is weak.

Knowledge and patriotism fundamental to good citizenship.

The purity and permanency of the family.

The power of righteous public sentiment.

A revival of Christian religion needed from ocean to ocean.

An official program will be announced later. A number of able speakers have been engaged among them some whose reputation is national. In addition to the formal addresses, a few hours will be left open for short speeches and general discussion.

INVITATION ISSUED.

An invitation has been circulated by the Civic League of America, bespeaking the interest and co-operation of all public-spirited citizens in the conference. Constructive effort will be the keynote of its work. Particularly are the southern states invited to join in making the meeting a wholesome inspiration not only for the south but for the entire nation. All churches, missionary societies, mission boards, young people's societies of all denominations, young men's and young women's Christian associations, temperance societies, and other organizations with Christian or patriotic purpose, are urged to appoint delegates upon the following basis: ten delegates from each national body, five from each state organization, and two from every other co-operating organization.

The headquarters of the executive committee have been established in room 622 Empire building, Atlanta. Further information can be obtained there.

Burglaries Reported

Two petty burglaries were reported to the police Thursday morning. At 115 Hill avenue an entrance was forced at the back door and six suits of clothes were taken. A negro restaurant at 286 Peters street was entered through a rear window and the gas meter raided for $10.

Dr. Henry G. Hanchett Head of Music at Brenau

Prominent Pianist Well Known in National Musical Circles, Will Have Charge of Normal Department at Gainesville College and of the Big Pipe Organ

An announcement of widespread interest to musicians and lovers of music in the south is the coming of Dr. Henry G. Hanchett, to Georgia to take charge of the normal department of music in Brenau Conservatory.

For many years Dr. Hanchett has been prominent in national musical circles as a lecturer, concert pianist and author.

His work entitled "The Art of the Musician," published some years ago by the Macmillan company, has attracted much attention and favorable criticism.

He has also been a frequent contributor to the national muscial magazines on various pedagogical subjects.

He is well known to many music teachers throughout the south on account of his long connection with the Monteagle Chautauqua in the capacity of director of the music department.

Dr. Hanchett received his early tarining in Europe, and most of his professional life has been spent in New York and Washington City.

In addition to his duties as director of the normal department, Dr. Hanchett will also have charge of the big pipe organ which has been rebuilt recently. In this capacity he succeeds Dr. Percy J. Starnes, whose resignation as city organist of Atlanta, also made necessary his resignation of his position at Brenau.

Since the death of Dr. Augusta Gleger several years ago the management of Brenau have been in search of a man to fill his place. In the meantime the various courses of the normal department have been divided among the other members of the music faculty.

It is believed that Dr. Hanchett is admirably begun by Dr. Gleger many years that he will still further develop the splendid work of teacher training so admirably begun by Dr. eGlger many years ago.

ARMY'S GETTING POPULAR DURING THE MEXICAN ROW

Record Number of Enlistments During Past Month at Atlanta Station

That the record number of enlistments registered in the Atlanta district of the United States army recruiting station for the month of July was caused through the possibility of a war with Mexico, is the reason advanced by Lieutenant J. J. Gallogly, in charge of the station here, why so many young men recently have joined the army.

During last month 101 men enlisted. Forty-two in a month was the record up to that time. The average number of recruits who entered the army during the past six years is nineteen per month.

Lieutenant Gallogly stated Wednesday that a further record for enlistments would be made in August as already 109 men have joined the army this month, which is in excess of the July figures. Out of over thirty applicants Wednesday, sixteen were accepted.

DR. LEN G. BROUGHTON ARRIVES HERE NEXT WEEK

Ex-Atlanta Minister, Now Pastor Congregational Church in England, Coming

The Journal is in receipt of a copy of the Congregational News containing a comment on the first anniversary of the Rev. Len G. Broughton as pastor of the Christ Congregational church of London, one of England's most historic churches. Dr. Broughton formerly was pastor of the Atlanta Baptist Tabernacle and was largely instrumental in building up that church here. Over a year ago he went to London.

It was not generally known in Atlanta that Dr. Broughton had gone from a Baptist to a Congregational church. The fact is disclosed, however, that the pastor did not change his belief and that there is little difference in the doctrine of the Baptist church in America and the Congregational church in England. In the latter country all protestants are more closely allied than here.

Dr. roughton is at present in New York. He has spoken there several times. He is expected in Atlanta next Monday or Tuesday on his way to Macon, where he will conduct revival meetings under the auspices of the Baptist ministers.

TOMATO RESEMBLES HEAD OF A MONKEY

Mrs. B. Underwood, of Cartersville, Ga., has sent The Journal a small tomato, about an inch in diameter, which in her opinion bears a striking resemblance to the head of a monkey.

The back of the head is broad and flat, while the forehead is high and outstanding in front—which would seem to imply the monkey from which nature fashioned the likeness was an intellectual monkey.

Below this dome of a brow are two "eyes" in the skin of the tomato, and underneath the eyes a slit like a mouth. The color of the tomato is yellow.

DONAHUE WOULD HAVE MEXICS FIGHT IT OUT

Ex-President of Mexico Favors Wilson's Policy Except Arms Embargo

The United States should follow the "hands off" policy with Mexico favored by President Wilson, in the opinion of Pat J. Donahue, a former Atlantian, who has returned to the city after eight years in the Latin republic. He is visiting his brother-in-law, Herman Agricola, of 526 Central avenue. Mr. Donahue has business and commercial interests in Mexico.

The only point wherein he differs with the president is the embargo upon arms which has been instituted by the easiest way. He thinks that the easies tway to settle the revolution—perhaps the only way—is to allow the rebels and federals whatever munitions of war they can buy, and let them fight it out to the bitter end. It this were done, he thinks, peace would soon result.

"For the United States to interfere in the revolution would be but interfering in a family quarrel which is not ours," said Mr. Donahue.

"Such a step would mean the ultimate annexation of a portion of Mexico. This would only antagonize foreign powers who would interpret this action of the United States as one of greed for territory."

Mr. Donahue declares that the Mexicans boast openly that in the event of hostilities between this country and Mexico, Japan would be an ally of the southern republic. He thinks the Mexicans are misplacing their confidence in this instance, however.

"There are many Japanese colonies in Mexico today," he said. "Thousands have moved from the Orient and bought land. But it is my opinion that the Jap is the worst enemy of the Mexican. I have talked with them and they laugh at the idea of joining Mexico in the event of intervention.

"There can be no doubt that Japan is desirous of a foothold in the western hemisphere That is the reason for the establishment of these colonies in Mexico. They want to get as near the Panama canal as possible."

UNCONSCIOUS LAD EATS AND DIGESTS HIS FOOD

Fourteen-Year-Old Charlie McAfee Still Suffering at Grady Hospital

Charles McAfee, fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. Lucinda McAfee, of 13 Capitol avenue, who was injured in a fall from a bicycle on Peachtree street, near Baker, Sunday is kept alive by food he eats unconsciously at the charity hospital.

The youth has been in a state of coma for more than 100 hours and, although he has lost all control of his bowels, he swallows and digests liquid foods which are placed in his mouth.

Doctors at the hospital are beginning to doubt the possibility of the lad's recovery. His condition was worse Monday morning than at any time since the accident.

Desire for Sleep Cost This Man His Right Arm

James H. Whitaker, a laborer living at 642-B East Fair street, is lying at the Atlanta hospital today minus his right arm, due to yielding to the desire to sleep.

Whitaker fell asleep beside the East Lake car line Wednesday night and threw his right ar macross one of the rails. An outward bound car passed over it and the member had to be amputated at the hospital. He is married and about thirty-eight years of age.

ANTE-BELLUM CABIN TO BE BUILT IN GRANT PARK

"Befo' De Wah" Society Will Erect Structure Typical of the Old Days

A log cabin typical of the south in the first half of the nineteenth century and replete with the furnishings of that time will be erected in Grant park by the "Befo' De War in Dixie" society, a committe, consisting of C. H. Burte, R. A. McMurray and W. S. McNeil was appointed to arrange with the park supervisors and make other necessary plans for the erection of the building. Already, it is said, several members of the park board have assured the society officials that a plot of ground will be put at their disposal.

The society met Wednesday afternoon in the Central Baptist church. The majority of the 165 members were present and heard a lecture on Dixie before the war.

Dr. Lamar is writing a history of the south, covering the period before the Civil war. There is no book in existence which covers this field as completely as is intended in the new work.

COTTON MADE NEW HIGH RECORD FOR MOVEMENT

Market in New York Closed 6 Points Off to 25 Up From the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Cotton showed considerable excitement. Liverpool rallied sharply on increased spot demand and bullish crop reports and the local market opened with a sharp advance of 3 points on August, but generally 11 to 24 points higher with all positions making new high ground for the movement. Realizing checked the advance and caused only slight reactions. The market confirmed very active at a setback of 6 to 7 points from the best.

The official forecast for unsettled weather and scattering showers in the southwest helped to inspire a reactionary sentiment during the morning, but after a reaction of 10 or 14 points the market steadied on a continued demand, with prices at midday 13 to 19 points net higher.

Estimated receipts today 13,000 bales.

A little scattering liquidation of August contracts sent last month off to a net loss of 24 points during the early afternoon and positions reached to within 5 or 6 points of yesterday's closing figures under moderate realizing, but continued active and the market was unsettled.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28.—Cotton futures opened strong at an advance of 18 to 23 points on much higher cables than due and a dry weather map. Rain prospects and bullish crop reports indicated that little or no rain had fallen in the southern belt last night. Crop reports continued to indicate rapid deterioration in Texas and Oklahoma, where hot and large picking orders for long account to fill on the first call and immediately after, and at their highest the trading months were 21 to 24 points over yesterday's close. The forecast of unsettled and showery weather over the belt today was not believed heavy selling, and at the end of the first hour active months were generally only 10 to 11 up.

Around the middle of the morning the market was steady at an advance of 7 to 8 points over yesterday's close. At this level long buying increased and few estimates of the pending condition report and prices commenced to advance again. Professional traders, however, were inclined to be cautious because of the rather extensive interests that has been built up by the recent advances. A crop estimate of 14,000,000 bales, maximum, including interim, from a distinctly authority would attract considerable attention and helped the market. At noon prices were 13 to 16 points over yesterday's last quotations.

LIVERPOOL COMMERCE REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Crop reports to the effect that excessive heat is hurting cotton in the crops of Texas and Oklahoma by drouth during the past month. High temperatures are drying cotton up. Much shedding reported. Conditions worst in Texas, other points insignificant. (Journal.)

In Texas cotton has suffered severe deterioration in the past week in the plant is now fruiting excessive high temperatures are a positive menace to the crop. Shedding unusually heavy, and cotton is opening prematurely. Boll weevils, and particularly boll worms, have cut yield somewhat, and will cut it more before the early free from insect damage. Many sections have had a rain for one or two days out of the month, but it is only the old fruit that promises any yield, and being continuously consumed it is too late for cotton to do any good. Top crop prospects are very poor. Some predict the shortest crop in years. Picking will be general by the first of September 1.

Oklahoma conditions are very much the same as in Texas, but drouth and high temperatures have been more severe and more general. The plant is drying up and bolls are opening small. Premature opening in general, and it is generally too late for rain to serve the crop.

Prospects are generally favorable for a good yield in Florida.

Telegrams from leading bankers in Oklahoma to the Journal of Commerce indicate a condition for that state of about 60 per cent. The secretary of the board of agriculture of Oklahoma is quoted as saying that the crop of the state will be about 80 per cent of the normal yield.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Some August shorts have held on to their contracts. Several covered yesterday and because local scarcity of spinning cotton has been reported in the past month were the most violent witnessed in the New Orleans market in many a long day. A little short selling and some hurry up calls for tender cotton from the interior stoped the subsequent panic. However the position has not been fully liquidated and further interesting developments are looked for. In so far as the general market is concerned, the talent has become much more extremely nervous and uncertain. Private crop reports have forecasted a very serious deterioration condition figure next Tuesday, probably 69.5 or 70. Great street interest was laid on the scope of drouth damage in Texas and Oklahoma. The plant in both states ripened by the spot month has added to the alarm of new bulls and bears alike

GEORGE E. KING NOT AS ILL AS REPORTED

Atlanta Man Will Be Able to Sail for Home on October 2, It Is Said

George E. King, president of the King Hardware company, who is suffering from an attack of appendicitis in the American hospital in the suburbs of Paris, France, will be able to sail for America on October 2. This news was conveyed to Atlanta in a cablegram received by J. A. Le Conte, treasurer of the firm, Wednesday night. The local merchant and his party are expected in this city before the middle of October.

Mr. King was ill in Venice for nearly a month before he went to Paris and he has been in the hospital there for some time. Several days ago it was reported here that his illness was serious. Reassuring messages have been received recently, however, and it is now thought that at no time has his condition been such as to warrant uneasiness.

In the party which accompanied Mr. King are Mrs. George F. King, his wife; Mrs. J. N. Le Conte; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lyon, of Baltimore, and Miss Mary King. The party, it is expected, will sail from Cherbourgh on October 2.

CRAWFORD CASE WILL NOT COME UP UNTIL OCTOBER

Grand Jury Will Not Take Up Consideration of Bill Against Widow Till Then

Still another month will probably pass before a grand jury is asked to consider a bill against Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, the wealthy widow, who is charged by a grand jury warrant with the murder four years ago of Joshua B. Crawford.

Owing to the disqualification of Solicitor H. M. Dorsey, Solicitor General Reid, of the Stone Mountain circuit, has been appointed by Judge W. D. Ellis to act in his place.

Mr. Reid, who was in Atlanta Wednesday, states that he will be busy holding court in his own circuit for the next four weeks, and that there is little likelihood of his being able to take up the case until the middle of October.

Mrs. Crawford, who waived a commitment hearing before Justice C. H. Girardeau, was bound over to the grand jury on a murder charge, but by a superior court order was allowed to give bond in the case.

The murder charge was not brought against the widow until four years after Joshua Crawford's death, and followed immediately the announcement that Dr. H. F. Harris had examined the body, and found traces of morphine in the stomach.

A warrant has been issued, charging Frederick Lumb, a New York barber, with being an accessory before the fact of the alleged murder, but until they grand jury acts on the case, there is little probability of a serious effort to extradite him.

Decatur Street Is Startled by Twelve Rapid Pistol Shots

Had Policeman Hannah been in Tucson, Arizona, or some other western center of civilization and had he done what he accidentally did on Decatur street early Thursday morning the residents of the aforementioned center of civilization would have fled to cover. They would have thought somebody was shooting up the town.

Policeman Hannah fired twelve shots. He got started shooting and couldn't stop. But no blame is attached to him for the episode. He had a hold of something he didn't understand and, therefore, is held blameless.

Patrolman Hannah and Officer Donahue had just arrested Jouston Jenkins, aged fifteen, of 432 Decatur street, and McKinley Harmon, aged seventeen, of 5 Lucy street, whom they suspected of burglarizing the dairy of William Moore at 444 Decatur street, earlier in the morning.

In searching the prisoners before taking them to the police station, Hannah discovered a revolver on Jenkins. It was an unusual revolver. He had never seen one like it before. He held it in his hand inspecting it with a critical eye. Suddenly, pung! pung! the weapon started to shoot. It continued to shoot despite the efforts of the policeman to prevent it, until the ammunition in the chamber was exhausted.

It was a twelve-shooter and, therefore, twelve bullets are imbedded in various obstacles near the scene of the arrest. Patrolman Hannah, with rare presence of mind, held the weapon away from anything or anybody that might be harmed by a bullet.

Later at the police station he made a further investigation of the weapon. He discovered that he had touched a secret spring which made the pistol very much of a deadly weapon.

Both lads are held by the police. Jenkins at the juvenile detention home and Harmon at the station house.

POLICE SEEK ARTHUR RILEY, DISAPPEARED

Reported That He Has Been Run Over—Missing From Home Since Tuesday

Arthur Riley, aged nineteen, of 76 Almo street, disappeared from his home last Tuesday and has not been seen by his parents since. His brother, M. D. Riley, reported the matter to the police Thursday morning and sought the aid of Chief of Police Beavers in finding the youth.

The brother of the missing lad heard a rumor to the effect that Arthur had been run over by a train and killed beneath the Bellwood avenue viaduct. An investigation proved this report wrong, however.

W. C. PUCKETT SICK; ASKS 30-DAY LEAVE

W. C. Puckett, claim agent of the city attorney's office, is seriously ill, and W. D. Ellis, Jr., the assistant city attorney, has asked the claims committee of council to grant Mr. Puckett a thirty-day leave of absence.

Under a recent city ordinance only the mayor can grant leaves of absence from the city for city employes and officials, and the application on behalf of Mr. Puckett will be filed with him, and he probably will grant it.

While Mr. Puckett is out of the city his duties will be looked after by W. T. Buchanan, the city weights and measures inspector.

WHEN WOMAN SCREAMS THIEF DROPS $140

Mrs. R. J. Robinson Awakes to See Burglar Getting Out of Window

Mrs. R. J. Robinson, of 126 Fraser street, awoke at 2 o'clock this morning to see a burglar making his exit through a window of the front bed room in which she and her husband slept. She screamed and the marauder dropped $140 in gold which he had stolen. He escaped, however, before the woman could get a good glimpse of his face.

Mr. Robinson, who is a jailer at the Fulton county tower, was aroused by his wife's screams. Before he could give chase, however, the burglar had disappeared in the darkness. Police who were notified searched the vicinity but their hunt was fruitless.

Although he dropped $140 when Mrs. Robinson screamed, the burglar made away with $160 in greenbacks. The money reposed in a trunk in the bed room and the intruder had climbed in through the window, rifled the trunk and other furnishings in the room and was making his escape before the sleepers heard him.

$3,500,000 IN PROPERTY LEVIED ON BY THE CITY

It Will Be Sold for Taxes Unless Redeemed Within Time Limit

The city of Atlanta has levied on approximately $3,500,000 worth of real estate for back taxes. This will be sold at public outcry unless the owners redeem it within the time allowed.

The tax committee of council has instructed City Marshal James M. Fuller to proceed in this manner without delay, and already the effect of the city's prompt action can be seen, as about $10,000 in back taxes has been collected since the marshal's notification was issued.

The balance remaining to be paid is estimated at $40,000, which includes taxes, costs and interest. The city will need every dollar of this money to pay expenses and close the year with both sides of the ledger balanced.

As soon as the Georgia railroad adjusts its ad valorem assessment with the state comptroller general, W. A. Wright, the city of Atlanta will get about $50,000 in taxes on the Atlanta Joint Terminals. The railroad has agreed to an assessment on the terminals on this basis, and is only waiting for General Wright to accept the assessment.

FRENCH MINISTERS TO PICK EXHIBIT SITE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The French minister to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915 will arrive in New York tomorrow and will proceed to San Francisco to select and dedicate the sight for the French building. The commission consists of M. Tirman, chairman; C. Roger Sandoz, Pallerin de LaTouche, M. Sacy and M. Guiffrey.

The French commission is the first from the great European nations to arrive at San Francisco. Upon its return it will make recommendations to the French government for such an appropriation as in its judgement is needed for the proper reprepresentation of that nation.

IN LOCAL THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

It is agreed that the vaudeville bill offered at the Forsyth this week is as clever as things usually are at the busy theater. All of the acts have become established. Each one has its supporters. Some registered better hits than the others, and collectively the show is just the sort to keep people thoroughly interested from the moment the entertainment starts until it is all over.

Svengalli keeps puzzling people. Whatever "power" this man possesses is wonderful. He introduces a young lady and "puts her under control." She is seated at a grand piano, and Svengalli walks on stage and the audience, and as soon as some one whispers the name of an opera, the "subject" commences to sing and play the request. Svengalli does not speak a word to the subject. There have been all sorts of guesses, and though the act is the last number on the bill, no one leaves the house until the conclusion of the feature.

The Meredith Sisters, in "Girls of Many Nations," offer a splendid act that has won splendid triumphs. They make a great number of changes in costume in a wonderfully clever fashion. Their songs are new and pleasing, and they are surely adding to the drawing power of the bill. Bond and Benton have won favor with an excellent comedy sketch. Claude Golden entertains with card tricks and the other acts make good.

Starting with Labor day matinee and continuing all the week, Sam Mann and company, in their stage life playlet, "The New Leader," will be the headliners, and among the other features will be Willard Simms and company, in their funny wall papering act, and Alexander and Scott, in their character offering. The other acts on the bill are of the highest quality.

Hawthorne's story of Puritan life years ago, written in novel form and called "The Scarlet Letter," has been dramatized for motion pictures and is the big feature that is being shown at the Grand by Kinemacolor yesterday and today. The three reel subject cannot be held longer than today, because of the great demand for it in other cities. For Friday and Saturday the Kinemacolor subjects will be "Other People's Children," a two-reel comedy that is full of life and action and a most interesting reel of "Beach Scenes Around New York."

Kinemacolor pictures at the Grand are changed every other day, but the first release, first run, black and white offerings of the best makers of pictures are changed every day. The schedule of exhibitions is continuous from 2:30 to 10:30 daily—5 cents admission until 7 p. m. and 10 cents after that hour.

The Kinemacolor pictures cannot be seen at any local motion picture theater but the Grand, and the first-run releases of the other sort of pictures are to be seen at the big house before presented elsewhere. Kinemacolor is fast becoming popular with theatergoers and "movie" fans. The subjects that have been presented are surely excellent. The natural colors are "pictures no artists could paint," and some of the scenes are truly beautiful.

The program for next week will be of more than ordinary interest and among the features will be the big three-reel feature, "Steam," conceded to be the greatest colored picture ever seen on a screen.

Daily rehearsals are in progress at the Lyric theater of "The Circus Girl," the play in which Miss Emma Bunting is to appear at that house next week. Seats are selling rapidly and indications point to large attendance for all the performances to be given by Miss Bunting next week, this being particularly the case since it will be her last appearance in this city for some time to come. The little actress has an agreeable role in "The Circus Girl," a play which she has never yet been seen in Atlanta. Mr. Whitaker is also supplied with a part to his liking. A special holiday matinee will be given on Monday, in addition to the regular ones of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

"Her Fatal Shadow" brought another large audience last night to the Bijou, and judging from the applause and curtain calls, those present not only enjoyed themselves thoroughly, but got full value for their money. "Her Fatal Shadow", is a decidedly strong bill, and in the hands of the Jewel Kelly company is proving a strong drawing card.

Between acts some very clever specialties are introduced, doing away with the long waits that usually attend dramatic offerings. Matinees are given every afternoon at 2:30 and night performances at 8:30. The announcement is made that for next week the sensational melodrama, "The Man from the West" will be presented. It is said that this play is even stronger than the present offering and should give the Jewel Kelly company every opportunity to display the talents of its members. There is plenty of good comedy and the melodramatic effects introduced will make the play especially interesting. The sale of seats is now going on at the Bijou box office, where reservations may be made for the entire week.

APPROVED
By U. S. WAR DEPARTMENT

THE RECORD

By special order of the Secretary of War an officer of the United States Army is to be detailed for service at Riverside Military Academy.

The approval for this detail follows speedily the recommendation of Major B. F. Hardaway, Seventeenth Infantry, stationed at Fort McPherson, who made the inspection by special order of the War Department early in July.

This detail carries with it the complete equipment of modern rifles, dress and service accouterments, haversacks, canteens and mess equipment as used by the United States Army.

Also artillery and cavalry equipment for dismounted service.

The uniforms of the Riverside cadets are identical with those of the West Point cadets and are fitted to the figure of each cadet by military tailors at Riverside Military Academy. In this respect, Riverside stands alone among the Southern preparatory schools.

THE RECOMMENDATION

In July of this year a request was made upon the War Department for an army officer to be detailed for service with the Riverside cadets.

Copies of the current catalogue and a complete description of the campus, location, surroundings, physical equipment and faculty were furnished.

This so impressed the War Department that notwithstanding the annual inspection of academies and schools applying for such recognition is made only in April, a SPECIAL INSPECTION was ordered immediately, and Major Hardaway was detailed for this service.

He was so impressed with the location of Riverside, two miles out of Gainesville—connected by trolley—in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, on the banks of the Chattahoochee River, with Lake Warner on its 2,000-acre campus, that he wrote in strong praise of its magnificent natural advantages and wonderful possibilities.

He was greatly impressed with the opportunities afforded for indoor gallery practice, long range sharpshooting adjacent to the school, the maneuvering grounds, bridge building, pontoon work, swimming, boating and other arts of modern warfare, all on or at the campus.

The physical equipment, with its well lighted, perfectly ventilated and modernly equipped barracks, mess hall, class rooms and gymnasium, so enthused him that his comments on these features in his report caused the War Department to take immediate action and announce the approval and detail.

THE REASON

Riverside possesses all the requisites of an ideal military school. In addition to the superior advantages named, Riverside has:

1. An Accomplished Faculty—An instructor of successful experience for every twelve boys. No cadet's room more than three doors from teacher.

2. Wholesome Atmosphere—Two miles out in the hills, with ideal quietude for study, yet enjoying the cultured influences of the refined and intellectual city of Gainesville.

3. Superior Athletics—Only best coaches and trainers employed. Every boy given opportunity to participate. Three and four teams in each sport, coached by members of faculty.

4. Individual Instruction—All the courses offered by any preparatory school and taught thoroughly.

5. Inspection Invited—The most complete boys' school in the South. Parents and prospective patrons urged to visit academy.

The Automobile in Rural Life.

Among the socializing influences in rural life, few have been more potent than that of the automobile. The telephone, the trolley line, the free delivery of mail, the parcel post and divers other agencies are breaking the spell of isolation that once overhung the farm and are enriching country districts with many of the advantages which in years gone by only towns and cities enjoyed. But after all the surest and simplest aid to neighborliness is a good road; and the automobile is undoubtedly the greatest practical force that has yet appeared for the betterment and extension of highways.

A decade ago this particular service of motor vehicles could scarcely have been foreseen. They were regarded as being primarily, if not entirely, machines for city use. But as their mechanism was perfected, as they were made more secure and more dependable for long distance travel, they began to exert a far-reaching influence on rural conditions. The automobile demanded well-kept roads. A road along which the teamster might somehow struggle was impassable for the motorist; and so, with the increasing use of automobiles there arose a widespread, an insistent and organized demand for better roads. This movement once under way gathered momentum every year and today its good results are manifest over the greater part of the entire United States. The need for good roads had always existed; but it was the automobile that created the occasion for united endeavor in this great cause.

Indirect though it may have been, the influence of the automobile as a road builder is incalculable. The comforts and amenities of farm life are rapidly increasing; the day will come when a home in the country will have practically all the advantages with none of the disadvantages of a home in the city or town; and then one of the gravest of our economic and social problems—the congestion of population in urban centers—will be solved. This wholesome change will be brought to pass largely through improved school systems, largely through devices for lightening household labor, largely through adequate methods for marketing crops and financing farm needs, very largely through scientific, businesslike methods of farm management and chiefly, perhaps, through a broadened and quickened sense of social kinship among the people themselves. But is is not evident that better schools, better marketing facilities and a closer neighborliness all depend upon better roads? Well built and well-kept highways furnish the key to the full enjoyment of all those benefits with which rural life is being invested.

Woodrow Wilson will rank as the least noisy if the most effective of presidents.

It is comforting to rejoice in our own temperature when we read of 100 degrees out west.

The Band and Organ Concert.

It has been many a day since Atlanta's musical interests afforded so distinctive an offering as the band and organ concert to be given at the Auditorium Thursday evening under the joint auspices of the Fifth regiment, National Guard of Georgia, and the Musical Festival Association. A military band and a great pipe organ are each sufficient to attract a large audience when the performers are skilled and the program well designed. The combination of the two should prove unusually popular. The band leader will be Chief Musician C. E. Barber, of the Fifth regiment and the organist Mr. Charles Sheldon, neither of whom requires any special commendation to the music lovers of Atlanta.

The proceeds of the concert will go to support of the regiment band and to the aid of the Music Festival Association in continuing its free Sunday afternoon concerts at the Auditorium. Each of these enterprises is worthy of the public's generous patronage; and the fact that the admission price for Thursday evening has been placed at a merely nominal figure makes it possible for everyone to aid these meritorious causes and at the same time hear a singularly pleasing performance.

Mexico.

The President's special message on the Mexican situation has served at least two highly important ends.

It has apprised Congress fully and frankly of the Government's policy toward our strife-ridden neighboring republic and has convinced even the most restless and fearsome that the administration's course in dealing with this grave problem has been not only prudent but also in keeping with the best interests of the nation.

Furthermore, it has made clear to the entire world the thoroughly unselfish attitude of the United States toward Mexican affairs and has won international sanction of any future step our Government may be compelled to take in order to protect its own honor and interests, and the interests of civilization.

The President is determined to exhaust every resource for the friendly pacification of Mexico. In so doing he has the support of Congress, regardless of parties, and the support of all the American people. Besides this he has the moral sympathy of other leading nations both in the western world and in Europe.

Georgia's Most Urgent Educational Need.

According to the school census recently compiled by the State department of education, there are nearly sixty-one thusand more children of school age in Georgia this year than in 1908. This is a fact of far-reaching importance. It means that we must have more teachers, more school facilities and equipment and, therefore, a larger school fund, if the State is to keep abreast its advancing responsibilities in this vital field of public interest. Whence is this money to come?

Our State government now appropriates more than two and a half million dollars annually for the maintenance of common schools. Only one other State in the Union dispenses more money for this purpose from its general income; and yet in regard to the amount expended daily upon each child for education, Georgia stands forty-sixth among her sister commonwealths. This seeming paradox is easily understood when we note the fact that only one State, Alabama, raises less money than Georgia for public schools by local tax. It is in just this connection that one of Georgia's gravest school problems arises. If the common school fund is to be adequate to meet ever-growing needs, the rank and file of counties must cease to depend so largely upon the State and must contribute more generously, or rather more justly, from their own resources. Thus only can the increase of nearly sixty-one thousand children of school age be cared for.

In Massachusetts, noted the nation over for its educational strength and progress, ninety-six and eight-tenths per cent of the public school fund is raised through local taxes; in Oregon eighty per cent of the fund is raised in like manner, and in North Carolina, eighty-eight per cent. But in Georgia only twenty-nine and six-tenths per cent of the money spent for common schools comes from local sources. The meaning of this record is clear: the State itself is dealing liberally with its common school interests but individual communities, taken as a whole, are lagging woefully behind their needs and their duty. Superintendent Brittain aptly declared in his last annual report:

"Georgia does not so much need greater appropriation from the State treasury as local cooperation and aid. . . . Prompt payment to the teachers and every possible encouragement toward local support and interest stand high above all other educational needs in Georgia."

It is worth noting in this connection that Florida has enacted a law which assures local support for public schools. In that State each county must levy a school tax of not less than three mills before it is entitled to share in the State appropriation for schools. The result is that the individual county has a direct, practical incentive to meet its share of educational responsibilities. It must help itself in order to receive help from the State. Georgia's school legislation is, as Superintendent Brittain remarks, admittedly superior to Florida's in many particulars but in respect to local school tax, Florida's plan places her ahead not only of Georgia but of any other neighboring State.

According to the school census of 1913 there are seven hundred and ninety-six thousand, two hundred and three children of school age in Georgia and of these something like half a million are white children. They constitute the State's richest asset; their rights and interests are among the highest the State is called upon to conserve; upon their education, the future of Georgia most vitally depends. How shall they be duly educated? Certainly not by State funds alone, for, in that respect the practical limit of our resources, for the immediate future at least, has been reached. They must be educated by each and every county measuring fully up to its high obligation. Those communities that have leaned entirely upon the State for their school money must bestir themselves to a keener sense of duty and a broader consciousness of their need.

SUPERFLUOUS ENERGY

By Dr. Frank Crane

One of the most astounding things in nature is the waste of sun-force. Frank W. Very, in an article in the Popular Science Monthly, calls attention to this, saying:

"The earth is a mere point in space and receives no more than one 2,200,000,000th of the radiant energy the sun is outpouring so lavishly." Yet from this almost infinitesimal fraction of the sun's radiation practically all known forces on earth are due.

The power of wind and wave and tide, of fire and its son, steam, of plant and animal life, of glacial movement, of rain and snow, even of all growth in trees and herbs and all forms of animal energy, come from this crumb of solar potency caught by the whirling world. And this apparent waste and extravagance characterizes all nature, and men and their spiritual dynamics.

It is a law of mind. You cannot learn one fact alone. Your study, your experience, must embrace a myriad of facts; only so will the one remain with you.

From months and years of "practice" the pianist culls at last the flower of perfection.

You read a book of 400 pages, and are lucky if one paragraph sticks.

To make forty sales the department store must induce 400 customers to come and look.

The traveling salesman interviews twenty merchants to get three or four who will place orders with him.

This is the law of success: Keep trying; if you want one man to give you employment or buy your wares you must apply to many men.

Out from every soul pours the power of personal influence. All but a minute fraction of it seems wasted, as in the case of the sun. You must be kind a thousand times to be effectually kind once. You must forgive seventy times seven to find the one instance where forgiveness counts. A hundred times must you be courageous if you hope to be brave the one time when it will be worth while.

The teacher knows how in the school room she must sow beside all waters to make a few seeds grow.

An editor writes one appeal in his daily newspaper. A hundred thousand copies are bought. Perhaps 5,000 persons glance at his article. Five hundred read it through. One hundred are interested. Ten perhaps are persuaded.

Of the countless volumes of philosophy, how rare are those that reach and fecundate the receptive mind!

What becomes of all the wasted energy of sun, souls, books and all powers, physical and spiritual? We do not know. We believe that somehow Nature, in her nicely balanced adjustments, throws nothing away, and transforms into other kinds of energy all superfluous vigor.

But the observer may learn, if he be wise, not to be discouraged at the apparent fruitlessness of his effort, but to go on, as the sun for many millions of years has gone on, putting forth his full vitality, that some fragment be used.

A Summer-Night Entertainment

By opening a course in popular astronomy at the summer school this year, Harvard achieved a success beyond expectation. As it was designed for those who have not made special studies in astronomy or mathematics, but who are none the less interested in the phenomena of the heavens, the course appealed to a wide variety of people. Moreover, as the classes were held at night in the open air on the roof of the observatory, there were no discomforts of heat and closeness to annoy the students. The result of these combined attractions was that numbers of business men not of Cambridge only but of Boston, attended the lectures, and the course proved as popular as it was instructive.

There is a suggestion here it would be worth while for educators to work out. In the wonderful volumes of what Tennyson called "the fairy tales of science" there are many marvels of which men and women of culture would gladly learn if opportunity afforded. Mere lectures weary most men after a day of either monotonous or harassing work in the office; but courses largely illustrated by pictures or demonstrated by experiment are almost always stimulating.

We have many such courses in winter. Why should they cease with the coming of summer? Open air lectures on astronomy by competent men with the heavens for a chart and the stars themselves as object lessons would be more attractive to thousands than vaudevilles or melodramas or the movies.—New York World.

Genius and Morals

Genius is frequently not the soundest exponent of morals. Schiller went so far as to say:

In every epoch in history when the arts flourished and taste reigned supreme, mankind was sunk in depravity, and it is not possible to find a single example of esthetic culture, at once widespread and advanced, among a people possessed of political freedom and civic virtue, of fine manners accompanied by genuine morality, or of behavior at once refined and sincere.

Those are rather sweeping sentences to handle. The greatest period of Dutch painting came at a time when the Dutch character was wonderful for endurance, independence and stability. Scholars dispute about the Athenian character at the great artistic period. It lacked some virtues, but it was probably notable for general elevation. The characters of Michelangelo and Dante hardly suggest that Italy at her height would support Schiller. The age of Shakespeare was an age that showed many of the healthiest traits the British have produced. The greatest artist of our own day, Tolstoy, was also the greatest moralist.—Harper's Weekly.

Threw the Silver Dishes Into the Sea After Eating

The tradition of Roman magnificence was not lost in the middle ages in Italy, at least among the nobles and the merchant princes. Yet sometimes this display of wealth was not so reckless as might be thought. Russell W. Leary, in "Italian Lanes and Highroads" (McBride Nast), pauses to expose one of the wealthiest and most powerful families of ancient Ravello, whose deserted palace stands on the edge of a high promontory, almost overhanging the sea.

For centuries the Rufoli maintained their pre-eminence both in commerce and war, for they were not only knights but merchants. They were friends and counselors of kings, and frequently entertained royalty in their palace. On one occasion King Charles of Sicily was their guest, and a great banquet was prepared in his honor. The food was served on platters of solid silver, and as each course was finished the precious dishes were cast by the servitors through the open casement into the sea. The canny host, however, had taken the precaution to have nets lowered into the water beneath the window.—Kansas City Star.

Where Every Man Has Two Souls

It is an article of belief among the people of West Africa that every man has two souls, one of which always animates his human body, while the other, by means of a magic draught, the secret of which has been handed down for untold ages, can leave the form in which it usually dwells, and float invisibly into the depths of the forest, where it takes on its were-shape. The Calabar river is supposed to be the home of many such elephant and crocodile souls—"Efumi," as they are called.

Near the bank where the main traffic crosses the river lies a great oval-shaped stone, half embedded in the ground. Behind it a ju-ju tree has been planted, and in front a heap of leaves may be seen. This stone is one of the altars of Nimm, the great nature goddess of the Ekoi people and the chief object of devotion to the women of this region. To insure her protection leaves must be plucked, rubbed on the forehead, and then thrown upon the heap with the prayer: "I am coming across the river; may crocodile lay down his head."

Where Sharks Announce Their Own Capture

Sharks are numerous in Magdalena bay, on the west coast of the peninsula of Lower California, the Pacific rendezvous of the American fleet for target practice. The monsters at this point seem to take almost any kind of bait, and it is rarely that a warship is seen at anchor without from one to a half dozen lines dangling from its stern. Watching a shark line is a tedious business, but it is strictly necessary in order that the fisherman may know when the monster is hooked, as its frantic rushes, if allowed to go unchecked, are pretty sure to cause some part of the line, leader, or even a portion of its own anatomy to give way, and result in its escape. The old scheme of tying the line around one's big toe and going to sleep would probably work all right so far as rousing the fisherman was concerned, but the sequel might not leave him in a condition to give undivided attention to landing his prize. To this end the officers and sailors have hit on an ingenious plan. Instead of taking in their lines when the dinner gong sounds or when for any reason they are on duty elsewhere, they run a stout piece of marlin twine from the shark line up to the steam whistle, leaving it for the man eater himself to announce the event of his being hooked by soupding a toot.—"The Sea Tiger" in the September Wide World Magazine.

GEORGIA PREPARES FOR BOLL WEEVIL

State Board Will Revise Rules Against Quarantining the Insect

A revision of the rules applying to the state's quarantine against the boll weevil will be made at the meeting of the state board of entomology next Tuesday.

The board will probably lift the quarantine against the shipment into the state of cotton lint and cotton seed hulls, but will continue the quarantine against cotton seed. Experience has demonstrated, according to State Entomologist E. Lee Worsham, that the boll weevil is not transmited in cotton lint and hulls.

A quarantine will doubtless be placed upon the shipment into the state of Spanish moss, cotton picking sacks and other articles in which the boll weevil hides. Professor Worsham says that the weevil winters in Spanish moss, which is often used to pack furniture and other articles.

At its meeting Tuesday the board will also define the quarantine line in southwest Georgia, for the boll weevil is expected to make its appearance before frost in Decatur, Early, Clay and possibly other border counties.

Members of the board of entomology are Agricultural Commissioner J. D. Price, chairman; R. C. Berckmans, Augusta, president of the State Horticultural society, and John T. Williams, of Round Oak, president of the Georgia State Agricultural society.

HUTCHINS DENIES HE THREATENED SUICIDE

His Assertion Borne Out by Neighbors and Officers of Police Force

James W. Hutchins, of 296 South McDaniel street, a patent medicine salesman, denies that he intended to commit suicide on Tuesday night when police were called to his home to quell a disturbance alleged to be in progress by someone who called the station house on the telephone. He is supported in his assertion by A. Jones, Clarence Martin and Police Call Officer L. B. Milam, who answered the summons to Hutchins' home.

Mr. Hutcains said Thursday that the publication of the article did him a great injustice. He was excited on the night of the reported disturbance, he said, because a man to whom he had entrusted a consignment of medicine valued at $508, had not left that amount of money with his wife as he agreed to do. When he arrived home and found the debt unpaid he ordered his driver to hitch up his horse and announced that he was going after the man. His wife tried to restrain him and somebody in the neighborhood must have thought a rumpus was in progress and called the police, Hutchins asserts.

The police left without making an arrest, when the matter was explained to them.

POSITIVELY IN RACE, SAYS WM. A. HANCOCK

Will Announce Next Sunday as Candidate for Alderman in Eighth

W. A. Hancock, who has frequently been mentioned as a candidate for alderman in the Eighth ward, but whose formal announcement has not been made, definitely stated Thursday that he will make the race, and said he was preparing his formal announcement for publication in next Sunday's papers.

Mr. Hancock formerly served in council both as a councilman and as alderman, then being a citizen of the Seventh ward, and heis thoroughly familiar with the workings of the city government. He was a member of the finance, streets, tax and other important committees, and was one of the leaders in council.

John S. Owens, vice president of the Central Bank and Trust Corporation, has already announced as an aldermanic candidate in the Eighth ward, and claims strong support already.

Both men are prominent and popular, and their race bids fair to be the most interesting of all in the forthcoming city primary, which the executive committee has set for September 30.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Rest, fresh air and well-cooked, nourishing food do help many persons suffering with Lung Trouble. But in many cases the disease is only temporarily "arrested," and something more is needed. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles and has brought about many complete recoveries in many cases where the surroundings were not ideal. Judging by the many reports of recoveries received, we believe it should be used in every case of Lung Trouble. A remarkable case follows:

Weldon, Ill.

"My Dear Sir: Through your instrumentality I here been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia which developed into Consumption. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's Alterative, a wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today I weigh 154 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain farm."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Blacky is a rascal!
Blacky is a thief!
Of all the troublemakers
Blacky is the chief.

That is what a lot of people say about Blacky the Crow. Of course it is true that Blacky does get into a lot of mischief, but if people really knew him they would find that he isn't as black as he looks. In fact Blacky the Crow does a whole lot of good in his own peculiar way, but people are always looking for him to do bad things, and you know you most always see what you expect to see. So the good Blacky does isn't seen, while the bad is, and so he has grown to have a very bad reputation.

But this doesn't worry Blacky the Crow. No, sir, it doesn't worry him a bit. You see he has grown used to it. And then he is so smart that he is never afraid of being caught when he does do wrong things. No one has sharper eyes than Blacky, and no one knows better how to use them. And so when he is about there is very little going on in the Green Forest or on the Green Meadows that he misses.

The day after Reddy Fox visited the old briar patch and with his wonderful nose found out Peter Rabbit's secret, Blacky just happened to fly over the old briar patch on his way to Farmer Brown's cornfield. Now being over the old briar patch he could lok right down into it and see all through it. Just as he reached it he remembered having heard Sammy Jay say something about gossipy little Jenny Wren's having said that there was great news in the old briar patch. He hadn't thought much about it at the time, but now that he was right here he might as well have a look for himself and see if there was any truth in it.

So Blacky the Crow flew a little lower and his sharp eyes looked this way and that way through all the bramble bushes of the old briar patch. He saw Peter Rabbit right away and winked at him. He thought Peter looked worried and anxious.

"Peter must have something on his mind," thought Blacky. "I wonder where Mrs. Peter is."

Just then he caught sight of her under the thickest growing sweet briar rose. He had opened his mouth to shout, "Hello, Mrs. Peter," when he saw something that surprised him so that he didn't speak at all. He almost forgot to flap his wings to keep himself in the air. He hovered right where he was for a few minutes looking down through the brambles, and then with a hoarse chuckle he started for the Smiling Pool, forgetting all about Farmer Brown's cornfield.

"Caw, caw, caw!" he shrieked. "Peter Rabbit's got a family! Peter Rabbit's got a family!"

Reddy Fox heard him and ground his teeth. "Now Old Man Coyote will know and will try to catch those young rabbits, when they ought to be mine, because I found out about them first," he grumbled.

Jimmy Skunk heard Blacky and grinned broadly. "So that's the great news Jenny Wren found out!" said he. "I hope Peter will take better care of his babies than he ever has of himself. I must call at once."

Redtail the Hawk heard and he smiled, too, but it wasn't a kindly smile like Jimmy Skunk's. "I think young Rabbit will taste very good for a change," said he.

NEW CASES OF INSANITY SET STARTLING RECORD

More Already Have Been Declared Crazy This Year Than in All of 1912

Judge John R. Wilkinson, Fulton county's ordinary is puzzled. He is trying to "dope" out the reason all records for the number of lunacy cases in his court are being broken this year.

It has been suggested that the reason is simple. This is 1913 and an "unlucky" year, but the ordinary is seeking a more serious reason, for the increase in lunacy cases is really alarming.

Judge Wilkinson has during the eight months of 1913 adjudged 113 persons. (There goes the 13 again) insane, more than have been committed to the asylum from this county during the entire twelve months of any other year. In 1912 and 1911 there were only 111 persons, one th eintense heat of a part while in 1910 there were 96 and in 1909 only 89.

The increase in population brings an increase in lunacy cases, but the increase this year is too great to be wholly accounted for by the increase in population.

Judge Wilkinson advances two reasons, onut the intense heat of a part of this summer, and another the crusade against vagrants.

It's hard to see at first what the number of vagrants has to do with lunacy, but Judge Wilkinson explains it in this manner. There are dozens of more or less harmless idiots who have no one to care for them properly, and most of the time they wander the streets. When the police get after them someone suggests that they are really insane, and a lunacy commitment results.

ENGINEER APPOINTED TO TEST CREMATORY

Mayor Woodward Names Frank Lederle to Determine Steam Power of Plant

Mayor Woodward has appointed Frank Lederle, a consulting mechanical engineer of Atlanta, to supervise the evaporation test on the new crematory, and the test may be commenced next week.

The appointment of an engineer for this tesft is made by the mayor under authority of a resolution council passed at a recent meeting, providing that an engineer be employed at a cost not to exceed $200. Councilman Claude L. Ashley, chairman of the sanitary committee of council, introduced the resolution.

The evaporation test will be made in order to determine accurately how much steam power the crematory will generate as a by-product, it being guaranteed to generate the equivalent of 1,500 kilowatts of electrical energy.

As to the capacity of the plant for the burning of garbage, Cuncilman Ashley, who is a mechanical engineer himself, believes that he and John Jentzen, chief of the sanitary department, can make this test themselves.

The crematory is now burning on the average something like two-thirds of the garbage of the entire city. It has been stopped several times for minor adjustments, but Engineer Canham, the Destructor company's representative in charge of the preliminary operation, states that all adjustments are now practically completed and that he has not the least doubt of the plant coming up to all the specifications and operating guarantees.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN IS WITHDRAWN

Police Believe New Orleans Man Committed Suicide as His Wife Claimed

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The police today withdrew the formal charge of murder which they made late last night against Mrs. Mary Sharpe, after the finding of the body of her husband, Joseph Sharpe, formerly of New Orleans, in a west side apartment, where the Sharpes had a furnished room. Mrs. Sharpe was found in an adjoining room with blood issuing from wounds in her head and body.

Mrs. Sharpe told the detectives that her husband had committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor after attacking and wounding her with an ice pick.

Assistant District Attorney Breckenridge, to whom she repeated the story today, came to the conclusion that she had told the truth and the formal murder charge against her was withdrawn. At the hospital it was said she had a chance to recover.

INTERESTING WEDDINGS

Wells-Thomas Wedding Interesting Home Event

The marriage of Miss Adeline Thomas to Mr. James L. Wells was an interesting event, taking place Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alice Muse Thomas, on Peachtree circle.

The ceremony was solemnized at 5 o'clock and witnessed by only the members and most intimate friends; Dr. O. E. Brown, of Vanderbilt, an uncle of the bride, officiating.

With a gown of midnight blue moire charmeuse the bride wore a becoming hat of black trimmed with black Parisdise aigrettes and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

Throughout the house a charming decoration prevailed in white clematis and pink asters, the flower white vine festooned with its snowy bloom. Windows and doorways and silver and crystal vases held the rose-colored asters softened by sprays of the same graceful clematis.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells left for Asheville, where they will be for a short stay before returning to Atlanta to be with Mrs. Thomas until October 1, when they take possession of their own home in Ansley park.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Brown, of Tennessee; Mr. A. W. Muse and Miss Kathleen Muse and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warren, of Albany.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

PARIS, Augt 18.—Shoes are always ugly in France and better in America, and nothing is so ugly as a Paris shoe made on an American last. The short vamp is mistress of the French bootmakers, but the French women are beginning to learn the attractiveness of the American shoe and the demand for them is great.

One can go everywhere in Paris today and see less hideous shoes than ever in the history of French summers. One rarely sees the spectacular heel that sloped from the back of the foot to the middle of the instep and then spread out to give a resting place. And one rarely sees those long vamped, pointed-toed shoes of dirty yellow that were as much a part of Paris as the white hats of its cochers.

However, Paris has some very good ideas in footwear, and while America is well ahead of it in everything that pertains to street dress for women, including shoes and stockings, still the ideas in French hosiery and slippers for house wear are always an inspiration to the American.

Last summer, when the mannikins wore the laced boot of the Romans the fact was duly chronicled in the American papers, but few people took it seriously. They thought it was a jest between Hellstern and the living models. In reality it was an experiment which has turned out to be a success. One sees the cothurne, as it is called, on many conservative women.

THE SANDAL FOR DANCING.

This laced boot is very atractive even when a woman has a thick ankle; it is apt to hold it in and give it some shapeliness even when it does not possess it. Such a shoe must be well made or its faults outweigh its advantages; but when it is fitted to the back of the ankle and laced across the front with smooth cords or ribbons, it presents a good appearance under any skirt that is slashed in front, or which is cut short to draw up over the instep.

The majority of these shoes are made of metal cloth in silver, gold and gun metal. The lacings are matched to the cloth and the only ornament is a button or buckle, more or less barbaric, placed at the top of the vamp.

Naturally, this buckle presents a chance for something eccentric and conspicuous, but what do you say to jet? Yet the latter is good when the shoe is well made and fits the foot. The lacings are of black satin and there are two tiny leaves made of gold crystals set on the vamp as a buckle.

The Heelless Sandal.

The indulgence in dancing by all classes and ages has brought the heelless sandal into play again. Also the flat heel is fashionable. These sandals are not laced far above the ankle and there is no back to the sandal at the ankle such as the cothurne has. In fact, the regular ballet slipper is used without the block at the toe.

Young girls are especially fond of this kind of dancing slipper and it is believed over here that little else will be worn next winter.

The Evening Story — Scarecrow of '63

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

An old aunt of ours, widow of a Yankee colonel, recently died, and among her effects was a diary containing things that happened to her during the war. She was considered "quite a case" in those days when, as she herself used to say, "southern chivalry protected every girl to the very inch of her life." Indeed, family tradition says she often rebelled at this care, preferring independence to a shocking degree, and was called "an ungrateful minx" in consequence.

"That way, quick"—time—that was all I needed.

The diary tells this among other stories:

Early autumn out of doors intoxicates me; I love to watch Jack Frost flirting with the flowers. He makes most of them turn pale and droop, the silly things. See how he transfers his affections from rose to goldenrod and from her to the Michaelmas daisy. He takes away his smile from the clover to make the sumach blush under his kiss. Poor little Bouncing Bet gives place to Black-Eyed Susan, and—well, altogether he is a gay Lothario. But he is is charming, just the same, and I love to walk in the fading leaves which he has made brown and teary. Above all, I have an especial weakness for corn; I am worse than gypsy—I am a very Indian when the ears hang low to listen to the trifling wind—he's another flirt, by the way.

"This day I have started out to walk, taking with me an orange and a cake to eat for fear I'd be late for supper (we were to have company I most wanted to avoid—prim, stupid cousins).

"The walk was a bit scary, because there was fighting not far off. I could see a dim line of gray along the horizon, and smelled powder when the wind was westerly. We, in those days, living along the Kansas border, saw a lot of excitement that never got into the papers.

"So I went on and on, sniffing the powder, and feeling for the hundredth time that I'd like to be a soldier in our glorious cause.

"It was getting late, the sun cast the elongated shadow of my bonnet strings far ahead on the path. I stopped by a bare cornfield, where a few straggling shocks were all that remained after a foraging expedition. Here I stopped to rest and nibble enough lunch to 'bother' the hunger till I could rummage for a snack later. Nobody was in sight; there was not even a fence to break the wide stretch of prairie. Only an old scarecrow flapped its arms in the wind. I opened my bag and began to peel an orange.

"A voice which seemed to come out of the heavens said: 'Don't be frightened—and, for pity's sake, don't scream.'

"I looked around, not a soul was in sight. The bare, tumbling shocks could not have concealed a rabbit, and the voice was a man's.

"'Don't worry. I am not going to scream, but who and where are you?'

"'I'm this scarecrow.'

"I looked around. There, not twenty feet away, that old scarecrow hung limp, in disgraceful rags, the feet hidden in a dismantled shock. The figure waved unsteadily, the torn brim of an old hat almost covered his face. Altogether the effect was the artificial man of straw with which Dixie's barren fields were only too familiar—a mockery of guardianship.

"The figure spoke again, and there was a wierd humor in the voice which issued from the scarecrow. 'Please don't move or indicate that you see me; the soldiers may come back any minute. But will you leave me that bit of a lunch? I'm starved, and this is my only chance for anything to eat tonight, even if I get back to camp at all.'

"I went on peeling the orange and never looking up; I dared not attract the attention of any passerby, and it was not yet dark. 'Who are you?'

"'I'm in the United States army'—

"'I beg your pardon; which army?' I interrupted, stiffly. But it wasn't easy to be dignified with a scarecrow. So as he only laughed I went on: 'I wish I'd had the forethought to bring more lunch. What in the world made you get into this ridiculous position?'

We were supposed to be enemies.

"'Caught outside the lines; some of your men peppered me a bit in the shoulder. When I saw this scarecrow here I jumped inside him. It was that or nothing. They were just behind me at the turn of the road; there wasn't a bare spot as you know, and I couldn't run any more.'

"The tired quaver in his voice went to my heart. I was just about to say something encouraging when he burst out: 'Quick! I hear the tramp; ake my gun there in the stack behind you. If they see me, maybe you can keep them at bay long enough at least to give me a start.'

"The gun! And I had been sitting almost upon it! A gun is the one thing in the world that I'm afraid of. I acknowledged it and the scarecrow implored: 'If you only won't aim it at me.' he laughed.

"But there was no time to be facetious. I arose, took the gun from the hiding place and arranged it where I could easily find it. Like most women, I am at my best when anybody's sick or hurt. All nervousness or embarrassment left me while I said: 'I hear horses coming over the ridge. I'll go and meet them. Maybe I can distract their attention. You might fool them, but we won't take too many chances.' And I dashed away.

"When I regained the road I began leisurely to stroll along. The scarecrow was in sight, but at this distance and in the dim light looked much like what it pretended to be, and, anyway, there was no other place to hide. As the soldier has said, the boldness of the plan was its only hope.

"The detachment of men now coming were men from the garrison nearby, most of whom I knew. The leader was John Lewis, whom I consider a very odious person. His opinion of me may be good or ill, for all I care.

"The men were looking everywhere. Many were on foot, peering into every roadside gully—looking, looking. My heart almost stopped beating. To attract their attention to myself I stopped in the middle of the road and began to scream violently and point down a side road which I knew made a detour into the woods and led—nowhere. 'There!' and I pointed and acted as hysterical as my calm temperament would permit. 'A man—bleeding and wounded, poor thing—there, that way. Quick!'"

"There was confusion, of course, and every man looked hard at me. (For once I was glad I happened to have on that ruffled pink calico—they all say it so becoming.)

"The captain and two others dismounted. 'What did he have on? What uniform?' they asked hastily, and I tried to look innocent.

"He had on neither coat nor hat, so I couldn't tell, but he was running like mad, and there was blood on his face, and—oh, go quick and help him!'

"He made a gallant offer of aid to me, saying some of his sweet nothings, but after all, he seemed as anxious to be off as I was to have him go, and they clattered down the road.

"Time—that was all I needed. And I fairly flew back to the scarecrow. I paused near without looking up. 'Keep up your courage till dark. I'm going home now, but I'll come back.'

"I was dying to run, but managed to go leisurely home. The folks were at supper, and I quietly stole upstairs. From Uncle Ben's closet I took an old suit and a hat and wrapped them up and slipped down the back stairs, where I rummaged for some eatables, and without seeing a soul but the cook sneaked out the back way and down the road again.

"It was quite dark when I reached the scarecrow, and at my approach he exclaimed: 'You angel!' which might have embarrassed me, but that I made it a rule to pay no attention to anything a man says—they are all frightful flatterers. So I only gave him the clothing, with the command: 'Dress. I'll stand guard with the gun.'

"And then it was that I began to have real dramatic thrills. I'm not nervous, but it is a wee bit 'creepy' to stand in the dark field aiming a gun at some vague unknown while a strange man changes his clothes a few feet away. He was very quiet—not a sound or a word. After a while he spoke. 'May I come nearer?' and as I turned he said: 'Now you can shoot me, you know; the gun is loaded.'

"Then take it quick,' and I walked up to him, handing him the gun.

"He did not take it, but stood looking at me a moment; then lifted his hat and said something about his gratitude and my bravery. I didn't get the words, but the tones—I could scarcey believe they came from a northern throat. He was handsome, too, but thin and pale.

"'You are thinking that I look as much like a scarecrow as ever.'

"'No; I am wondering about that 'pepper' in your shoulder.' But he assured me that it was nothing but a scratch which he had tied up with the sleeve of his shirt.

"'Then, as nearly as I can recall, this dialogue ensued, rapid fire, but low:

"'How can I thank you ever? Let me see you home first, and then—'

"'Nonsense! And then get caught! No; tell me, what direction are your lines?'

"'Due north, I should say.'

"'Very well. I know a short cut through Wilson's woods. I'll lead you; the others have gone on a wild goose chase the other way.'

"'How will you get home?'

"'That's easy. I often stay at Sally Price's, and we are making almost a bee line for her gate. You can leave me there and be safe in no time.'

"I handed him the gun, but he said: 'Hadn't you better keep it?'

"'Why in the world should I? It's heavy.' But later, having returned the weapon for politeness' sake, I insisted on carrying it.'

"'I haven't a bad shoulder. Besides, you had better eat a bite.'

"And so we trudged on across the fields and through the woods, saying only occasional words to each other, but each thinking a great deal. We were supposed to be enemies, and here we were the best friends in the land and always likely to be. At Sally's gate we pa: but I let him take my hand in farewell, for how could I tell that he might not be killed next day?

"'When the war is over may I come to see you? I promise never to be a scarecrow again, however much I may have to look like one when your gallant men in gray are through with me.' These were his words.'

My diary ends here, but it is probable that my aunt felt that the story of her romantic wedding later with the Yankee officer was too well known to need telling. The blending of gray and blue uniforms at the marriage was a peace epoch in the south.

Crackers Continue to Win Games But Mobile Just Won't Lose

Atlanta Will Defeat Barons In Hot Fight

Good Crowd of Wednesday Placed Crackers on Par With Attendance Shown at Birmingham–Mobile Series Helps

With Atlanta playing jam-up ball and winning every game, there is no reason why the fans should not turn out to the ball park and aid in humiliating Birmingham by taking the trophy for the largest attendance for the 1913 season. Right now it is just about a toss up, the big attendance of Wednesday having boosted Atlanta's mark, and from now until the last game is played the rivalry will be heated.

To date the Cracker club has played to 143,000 fans at Ponce de Leon. While this is considerably below the record of 197,000 made in 1907, it is a good mark and by the end of the season should be almost to the 1907 figure. Anyway, that is just what the local directors are working overtime for and they should be rewarded in their efforts.

The local club has this season given the fans a good ball club and plenty of good baseball and it is up to the fans to show their appreciation by turning out and rooting for the club. The chance for first place is of course right now a bit slim, but just one or two bobbles by Mobile and the Crackers will be right there. The Cracker club is winning games every day but the trouble is in the Mobile end of the argument, the Mike Finn tribe refusing to lose at all.

On Tuesday the Mobile team comes to Ponce de Leon for a series of four games. Right now the Gulls are six games ahead of Atlanta, and it will take two defeats to put Atlanta in a position to take first place by winning four in a row. Of course this may happen and if it does, watch out.

Benefit Race Honor McNeil

The proceeds of the motor races Friday night will form a purse to be sent to Jock McNeil's aged mother in Scotland. The management is anxious to make the purse a large one and for this reason Friday will be "Jock McNeil Night." The riders have generously contributed their services and will even pay their way into the races. No passes of any kind will be issued. The public is asked to respond to this memorial out of respect for the dead rider who so often thrilled them with his daring on the boards.

The feature of the night's races will be a match race between Tex Richards and Morty Graves. Both are confident of winning and have tuned their machines up for a great spin Friday night. There is a side bet of $50 by the riders and the same amount by the management of the machines they ride on the outcome of their race. It is understood that the winner wil contribute handsomely to the purse.

Long Smashes The Run Mark; Lower Records

Tommy Long Has Scored 101 Runs This Season With Old Record 99–Welchonce Out to Get Hitting Mark

When Tommy Long rushed across the plate in the fifth inning of Wednesday's game against Memphis he bettered the Southern league record for runs scored, this bringing his total up to an even 100, while the previous mark was 99 and was established back in 1903 by Gus Hill, who was then starring with the Nashville and New Orleans teams. But Tommy did not let this breaking of the record worry him in the least, coming back in the seventh with a home run which brought his total up to the 101 mark.

The Cracker club yet has a dozen ball games to play, and barring accidents it is a sure thing that Tommy will bring his run-getting mark up to something like 120. And 120 runs in 145 games is certainly going some. It is a mark anyone should be proud of, and shows that Tommy has been playing the game for all it is worth.

Harry Welchonce is right now mighty near the high water mark for hits for a season. The record is 192 hits and already Welchonce has made 178 hits and has twelve more games to play. He needs just fifteen hits to better the mark, and this should be easy. Harry has averaged more than one hit per game this season and with his usual average he will pass the mark with several hits to spare.

Unfortunately, the Cracker outfielder is right now suffering with a bad ankle and this will hurt him in his effort to lower the mark. With his foot in good condition Harry is able to beat out many slow ones to the infield, but now this is hard. In fact Harry's foot is now in such condition that he may not be able to play for some days.

Long's Drive Copped Game

In Seventh Round Tommy Hit Ball Over Left Fielder's Head for Homer

It was a home run to deep left field by Tommy Long that enabled Atlanta to win over Memphis in the third game of the present series. This homer came in in the seventh inning with Joe Agler on first and made the score 6 to 5, at which figure it stood with the end of the game.

Elliott Dent began the game for Atlanta and was going in grand shape when he suddenly developed trouble in his side and had to retire. Conselman then took up the work after Love was called to the hill.

Rivington Bisland continues to hold the spotlight. He faced Pitcher Marrell four times during Wednesday's game and each time he cracked out a safety. He also had eight chances in the field and each was accepted.

The field meet just before the start of the game did not seem to have any bad effects. Tommy Long appeared as fast as ever when he started his home run dash around the bags in the seventh. And from the way Nixon hurled the pill his arm was not overly exerted by the work in the long distance throwing contest.

Wallace Smith put the Crackers in the lead in the opening round when with two on the bags he hit a drive to the right field signs for three sacks. Agler's single and Long's double put two runners on the bags, Smith then scored on Bisland's first safety.

Harry Welchonce suffered an injured ankle in the fifth when he attemtped to score on Bisland's single. Just as Harry went to take the dirt his already sore ankle turned and he had to quit the game. It is believed he will be able to play again within a day or so.

In the second inning Elliott Dent fanned Ward on three pitched balls and followed this with two strikes to Schweitzer, the next batter on the list. After that Schweitzer fooled off one, took a couple of balls and then fanned at the next. Abstein was afterwards thrown out on the first pitched ball, making just ten delieveries for Dent during the inning.

Harry Holland made a phenomenal stop of Baerwald's hard grounder to third in the fourth. The ball was coming fast and took a bad hop.

Tommy Long gave a demonstration of fast fielding in the fifth when he came in back of shortstop a[illegible] grabbed Snell's pop. It was a long run and a good catch.

Cracker Outfielder Circled the Bags in Fourteen Seconds, Won the Dash

The field day events at Ponce de Leon Wednesday proved to be strictly Cracker affairs. Several of the Mmphis players entered the different events but failed to show, Atlantians taking away all the home honors without half exerting themselves.

Tommy Long, Al Nixon, Frank Manush and Wallace Smith proved the main attractions. Tommy Long won both the 100-yard dash and the base circling contest while Frank Manush won the funco hitting match as well as the sack races. Al Nixon won the contest for throwing the baseball. After the Turtles had failed to show in the match events George Merritt and Glen Liebhardt staged a base circling match and Merrill got away with the decision.

Decidedly the feature work of the afternoon was the work of Tommy Long. In the race around the bags he covered the distance in 14 seconds flat, which is right around the corner from the record. Wallace Smith also demonstrated some speed in this event, taking just half a minute longer than his ten minute. Nixon went the distance in 14 3-4 seconds.

Al Nixon certainly did throw the baseball in the toss for distance. Each of his throws went in advance of the mark set by the rivals. In the fungo hitting contest, Frank Manush nosed out Manager Bill Bernhardt, of Memphis, by a couple of feet. Nixon threw the ball from the signboards in deep center past the home plate, the distance being estimated at 290 feet.

In the 100-yard dash Long, Smith and Nixon won the three first places. Long led by a good margin with Wallace Smith just ahead of Nixon. Manush got away with $2 and a couple of silk shirts offered by Parks-Chambers-Hardwick Co., for winning his two events. Nixon won the silk umbrella offered by the George Muse Clothing company and Long received a pair of shoes given by Byck Brothers, and a hat from Law Brothers.

Players Reinstated

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Captain McBride, of the Washington Americans, and Manager Callahan, of the local American league team, who were suspended for arguments with Umpire McGreevy, were reinstated today.

SOUTHERNERS WHO STARRED

Dody Paskert was the only ex-Southern leaguer who did anything with the pitch Wednesday. Dody was up five times and got a two-bagger and a single.

Jake Daubert, Bobby Byrne, Moran, Al Bridwell and Jimmy Archer all failed to get a safety in the games Wednesday. Their day was a veritless except for a few fielding stunts.

Nap Rucker relieved Reulbach in the box against the Cubs and held them safe, but his teammates failed to overcome the three-run lead.

SOUTH'S BEST WILL COME TO COTTON STATES MEET

Entries are coming in for the Cotton States Tennis tournament to be held at the East Lake courts starting September 8.

When the Atlanta Athletic club first thought of holding this tournament this late in the season, it was doubted by some whether or not it would be a success. But the Atlanta players who visited the various southern cities for tournaments earlier in the year were assured a large entry list from each club.

Carleton Smith, who is managing the tournament, has written to all parts of the south, and the replies are beginning to come in now. He is confident that the tournament will be the best the local enthusiasts have had the pleasure to witness since the old southern tournament of some years back.

This is the fifth tournament that has been held for this title. At present the title holder in the singles is Lee Allen Brooks, of Birmingham, Ala., who won it in 1911, and as there was no tournament in 1912 he will defend this year. He has written and states that he will be on hand to defend the title against the tournament's winner. His friends in Birmingham say that he is playing the best game at present and is sure to put up a good game on the Atlanta courts.

Brooks paired with Bartlett, another Birmingham player, hold the doubles title, and they will play through the tournament.

Of the out-of-town players entered the bunch covers a good bit of southern territory. New Orleans will send up Edmond Phelps, Blan Monroe and Alfred Grima, all three cracks at the game. They have been playing good tenn is all year and are at the height of their form.

Chattanooga will send up a string headed by Ed Whiteside, Nashville's delegation will be captained by Parish. Both of these men have strong backing from their clubs.

*Henry Garrett and Ill Gary are ex*pected from Augusta, where they hold the South Atlantic doubles title. Other sharks from that city are more than likely to be on hand.

The Log Cabin club at Macon is turning out good men and it is believed that they will try their luck in this tournament.

After all the out-of-town players arrive they will have to contend with the strongest set of players found in any southern city, this Atlanta bunch. Nat Thornton, Carleton Smith, Ed Carter, Carl Rampseck, B. M. Grant, Eston Mansfield, Jake Orr and others. They will all enter and the fight is more than likely to center around them.

Carleton Smith is especially anxious to get a large entry list made up of the younger players around the city. There is a good bunch of them and all they need is play with the faster men. He has seen quite a number of them and has them entered. They include H. M. Ashe, Jr., Harry Hallman, Hardy Hall, Roff Sims, Vernon McMillan and others.

Frank Reynolds has been selected to referee and the tournament under his management will be run off in the best fashion.

Final Battle With Turtles

The Crackers will take their last fling of the season at the Turtles Thursday afternoon at Ponce park. Bill Smith wants to make it four in a row from the Memphis bunch and will fight hard to turn the trick. Bill Bernhardt doesn't like the idea of not winning at least one game in the series, so he will send Rube Kissinger in to do the twirling. Either Conselman or Dent will oppose. Both worked a while Wednesday; Dent was forced to retire on account of sickness, but is better today and feels equal. He had the Turtles going while he did pitch. Joe Conselman went in for one inning and the Turtle batters took kindly to his benders. But Joe hadn't had sufficient warming up for the occasion and if Bill Smith chooses to work him he will have the goods no doubt.

Harry Chapman will be seen back behind the plate. His bum thumb is much better and the Memphis runners had best have a care on the paths.

Harry Welchonce will be back in the game, too. He is out after the hit record for the season and his willow will be in evidence Thursday afternoon.

The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Nobody seems to be able to stop those Gulls. They won again Wednesday and so did the Crackers. All of which is vexing and causes no change in the percentage column. The Crackers are six and a half games behing the pesky critters anyway.

The Reds pounded three Giants pitchers for a victory, but, alas, what good did it do the Phillies? The Cards were hammering four of their slabmen all over the lot for twenty-one hits and fifteen tallies.

Here is a real surprise. The Athletics did not win Wednesday—it was an off day in the American.

New Orleans Here Friday

After the Turtles leave Thursday the Pels arrive for a, six-game stay lasting through Monday afternoon. There will be double-headers Friday and Saturday, necessary by postponed affairs during the past visits of the Pels. Monday is Labor day and there are two scheduled games, one for the morning and one for the afternoon.

The six games with but a day's rest between will call for some heavy work from the pitching staff of both clubs. The Cracker staff will be equal to the emergency, however, and Bill Smith is playing on taking the whole bunch.

New Orleans is at the bottom of the ladder with no hopes of a change, they are a broken lot and the picking should not be hard. Should the Crackers get away with the majority of these games it would be some boost in the percent column.

The six games with Labor day included will be the chance of a lifetime for the fans to rally and put it all over the Birmingham attendance record, and no doub they will do it.

And still is right there fighting par;

PSYCHOLOGY AND SUCH.

Sir: One reads much high-brow stuff these days anent the psychology of golf. On the other hand, one notes that the best scores are turned in by a lot of long-armed, supple-wristed guys who don't know the difference between apprehension and apperception. How about it? CADDIE?

The more stuff one carries in his system the less room there is for psychology. But, for all that, we can't afford to leave out the "psychological" and thereby lose one of the greatest little alibies we have.

ABOUT THAT LONG.

"How long does the National league intend to stand for C. W. Murphy?" queries F. D. H.

Probably until Murphy puts upon the National league the same blight he has put upon Chicago baseball and all connected with him. It will then be too late, of course, but you can't make the N. L. see that far. Just at present Chicago baseball is suffering most, but even a game with the virility and tenacity of the Nat. Pastime has its limits. And the Rt. Hon. C. W. M. is one of them.

The Cleveland Naps may have fluttered and broken at the wrong moment, but no one has yet been able to show T. Raymond Cobb that Joe Jackson has been in the hectic throes of any slump. The Naps may come and the Naps may go in all their Tennysonian grandeur, but Shoeless Joe is apparently going on forever—or what is equally to the point, on or around October 6.

On the other hand, a number of things can occur in five weeks, especially with Ty Cobb's batting eye, when it once gets prodded to the main business at hand. Ty doesn't mind getting beaten any more than he minds being shot at sunrise, but running second is a new and galling angle that may work the wrong way.

Some say Walter Johnson will clip into a world series and the dope will then be whether he will win it within four games or five. It being merely a question as to whether Grif decides that he should have one day's intermission between shutouts.

Johnson has won fourteen straights, but the main answer is that Johnson in the last two years has allowed fewer earned runs and fewer hits to the battle than any other slabman from either league. This is the one argument that closes out the debate.

NOT TO MENTION OTHERS.

As we gather in the report, Mrs. Britton is willing to sell the Cardinals for $500,000.

Along equally commercial lines we are willing to sell our straw hat, only four months old, for $112.54.

Our faith in the Wilson administration is waning. Ambassadors to Lower Uganda and the Fiji Islands have been named and C. Webb Murphy's name is not on either list. If it is also missing when the Odessa appointment is made we are planning to become an anarchist.

The football season is nearly upon us, but we are viewing it "as through a glass, darkly," with no thrill or flutter. By the time we conclude another world series shock and get our bearings again Harvard will be upon Yale's five-yeard line in the fourth quarter and Wisconsin will be trying a field goal from Chicago's thirty-yard line with two minutes to play.

The British public so far has refused to contribut a fund of $500,000 for the next Olympic. Thereby showing that the British Public—the last of the B. P.'s—is not yet entirely comical in the conic or dubious in the dome. Contributing $500,000 for the select purpose of finishing third or fourth is not what we'd do with that amout either.

The trade of Camnitz and Byrne for Dolan isn't concluded yet, if N. L. pennant race is definitely settled—either that or Fred Clarke forgot to leave a call on the morning of the deal.

How Allis Scored in GOLF Golf Play in West

One of the most notable scoring achievements that I have ever heard of was the way in which Allis, the runner-up in the western amateur championship, played the first hole of the Homewood links. In reading over newspaper clippings reporting the play I find that Allis in six successive rounds holed out five times in three each and once in one stroke. The hole as played during the championship measured 306 yards.

In the qualifying rounds Allis scored a three in the morning and a one in the afternoon. The following day he scored a three both morning and afternoon and then against "Chick" Evans he won the hole both morning and afternoon with a three. Such a glorious start in a match play round must have been particularly jarring to the nerves of his opponents, for in no match between cracks can a man afford to drop two holes in such uncanny figures and with such startling regularity.

We have all heard golfers remark that certain holes are their Jonahs, and occasionally a player remarks that he likes to play a certain hole because he generally makes a good score, but in contrast with this the scoring of sixteen for six times to a 306-yard hole beats anything that has ever come to my notice.

It is to be regretted that the details of the manner in which the succession of threes were made is not available, whether Allis drove the green each time or secured the result by laying his approach dead, or holed out a longish putt or two. The time he holed out the drive has been described in tais column. No matter how it was done, every golfer must acknowledge the brilliancy of the achievement.

Jerome D. Travers, the present amateur champion, when in a scoring vein, such as at Wheaton last year and in one or two matches this year, gets a veritable steak holes a stroke under par. That wonderful second shot of his right up to the pin enables him to pull off more threes when he wants them to win a match thna probably any other amateur in the world.

Walter J. Travis, likewise at his best and in a scoring mood, gets his holes under par largely through holing out longish putts, for which he is world-famous. He won the British championship through his wonderful putting, and has a playful way of sticking the ball down to the bottom of the cup from long distances on the green or from just off its edge enough times every round to break the heart of most opponents.

Par golf performances by leading experts is of necessity the play of a series of holes with machine-like consistency for accuracy and control of the ball from the first tee until it drops into the cup at the end of the round. Any little variations from perfection are equalized by accurate recoveries and the saving of a putt here and there through the round.

It is just as logical to expect the expert to average fours on say a 350-yard hole as it is to expect him to hole out in two puts on every green. Unless he can average two putts on every green or less he is not an expert any more than he is if he cannot reach a green at that distance in two shots. The difference between his getting threes or fours then becomes largely a question of accuracy in laying the second shot within putting distance or gobbling a putt.

If the average golfer would look at things from this angle instead of worrying his head over a thousand and one imaginary drawbacks in his game he would more rapidly improve his game. Golf is a hard master if proficiency is desired. It will not tolerate faint-heartedness or lack of confidence in playing up to the hole-side any more than it will permit the coward afraid to putt up to the hole to go down.

Almost any normal man can hit the ball hard enough to reach a point where he can easily get on a 350-yard hole in two. If he cannot do this now let him patiently practice until he can. With the practice acquire accuracy regarding direction. When you are reasonably sure of scoring fours on such holes you can seek to extend the scope of sure four holes up to the 400-yard limit and beyond.

STRAIGHT DRIVE.

Pepperton Wins

JACKSON, Ga., Aug. 28.—The fast Pepperton team fed Forsyth on goose eggs Saturday afternoon, the score being 9 to 0. The feature of the game was the pitching of Bowden for the locals who struck out fiftteen men and gave up but four hits and walked just one batter.

The Pep team had Forsyth's goat from the start, and they reached third only twice during the game.

The Pep boys landed on Lancaster's slants for fifteen hits, two of which were home runs, two two-baggers and one triple.

Another feature of the game was the batting and base-running of Nutt and Woodward, each getting a home run. Woodward also stole home while the pitcher held the ball.

The batteries for Pepperton were, Bowden and Nutt, for Forsyth, Lancaster and Ellis.

Bombardier Wells and George Carpentier are to fight again in London on December 6. Carpentier is expected to fight Jeff Smith, the American middleweight, at the Cirque du Paris, on October 20.

Army-Navy Game Is Off

Soldier Boys Arrange Battle With Indians Instead of the Middies

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Doubt that the United States naval and military academies will meet on the football field this fall has been aroused by the reported contract which the West Point cadets have made to play Carlisle at West Point on November 29, the date originally proposed for a game with Annapolis.

All summer there has been evidence of friction in the effort to arrange the annual army-navy game, which has been held annually on Franklin field, Philadelphia, drawing an attendance of 30,000, including high officials from Washington, army and navy officers and a large representation of society.

Disputes arose over the proper place for staging the contest, the West Point cadets being in favor of shifting the game to the Polo grounds in New York, where enough seating room could be obtained so that each of the schools could get 12,000 seats. Annapolis steadily refused to forsake Franklin field.

Consideration at West Point of abandoning the contest altogether finally took form, and Carlisle Indian school was suggested as a suitable substitute opponent, since it is a government institution and invariably has turned out one of the strongest football teams of the year. Official announcement of the cancellation of the game with Annapolis has not yet been made, but it is understood that within a few days a statement will be issued from West Point setting forth the conditions and announcing the substitution of Carlisle as opponents in the final game of the West Point cadets this fall.

He will spend the next two weeks practicing on the Oakley club links.

O'DAY IS VINDICATED WITH FALL OF TINKER

Former Umpire Points Out That It Is Butting in From Club Officials That Hurts Reds' Work

"I think I have been vindicated," said Umpire Hank O'Day when discussing his experience as manager of the Cincinnati Reds last year. "The Reds under my management finished in fourth place. If I had been able to get a firstclass shortstop, together with a good pitcher, the team would have been in second place, close behind the Giants. I don't care to criticise Joe Tinker's methods or the policy of the Cincinnati club owners, but I can't help pointing to the present status of the Reds and the consequent howl from the Cincinnati fans.

"When I saw that Mr. Herrmann had made up his mind to hand over the management of the Reds to Tinker I sent in my resignation. But I knew then what would happen. Today, while I am back on the National league umpire staff, I still feel that I can manage a ball team as well as anybody. Perhaps some of the new generation of fans do not know that I pitched for the Giants and Washington in the old days, and that when I was with the Senators my catcher was Connie Mack. I knew as much about inside ball then as Mack, and I've learned just as much about the game as he has since that time.

"Why shouldn't I be able to guide a team in the fine points? Is there anybody in a better position to learn the weak points of batsmen and the methods employed by the various teams than an umpire who has worked twenty years behind the bat? When I took hold of the Cincinnati Reds I was able to post my players regarding many things, and if I do say so they showed up-to-date methods. Yet when we were leading the race during the first month or so I told Mr. Herrmann that unless he could obtain a shortstop and a couple of pitchers we would drop back to fourth or fifth place.

"Do you know what greased the toboggan first? It was in the series with the Giants in Cincinnati the first trip that Johnny Bates, who was hitting .370, sprained his ankle, and the next day Bob Bescher was stricken with typhoid fever. Deprived of these star outfielders and with no able substitutes to take their places, we slid down the ladder.

"Jimmy Esmond, who played shortstop in fine style for Griffith in 1911, couldn't deliver for me, because of chronic stomach trouble. That was a hardship entirely unexpected, but it was not my fault. In fact, I had to take what Griffith left, the only new man who went south with me in the spring being a young pitcher named Williams.

"It is a fact that under my management the Cincinnati club made more money last year than ever before, and it was big money, too. I never had the slightest friction with the players, despite reports to the contrary, and if you don't believe me, ask Mike Mitchell, Art Phelan, Larry McLean, Arthur Fromme or any other member of the Reds who played for me.

"I established discipline from the outset. When McLean reported he weighed 236 pounds. I made him wear a rubber shirt, and during the spring training trip he took off nearly forty pounds, being in great condition when the championship race began. I made McLean understand that I was the boss.

"Some persons rapped me while I was manager because I paid no attention to wild stories. I was told that so and so was drinking heavily when, as a matter of fact, the player mentioned was drinking a couple of glasses of beer after each game with my permission. Because the team slumped I was the goat, yet it was beyond my power to help it.

"The trouble in Cincinnati always has been too many advisers. Mr. Herrmann is a fine man, but he listens to outsiders and persons who are self-appointed managers. If the Cincinnati players win, they are called heroes and ideis. If they lose, names harsh enough cannot be invented. I only wish that I had been permitted to keep the management for this year, for I know I would have accomplished more than last year. I will go on umpiring now until I get another chance to handle a big league team, when I will quickly accept, if only to prove that I am able to cope with the best team handlers in the big leagues."

Australians To Be Good

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Lawn tennis players who made the American game famous throughout the world gathered around the banquet board here last night to do honor to the team that retained the Davis cup to this country. The massive bowl of silver glistened in the light, inimately responsive to its tributes after an absence of ten years. It was the forerunner of a season of international competition in this country last year which Maurice E. McLoughlin, the hero of the cup conquest, declared would attract to America Anthony F. Wilding, Norman E. Brookes and the flower of the European courts.

McLoughlin rather startled the company by declaring that not only Wilding and Brooker, but Dunlop, would seek the international honors next season. McLoughlin said he had been informed by Dunlop that the latter would join the other two players in England next year and play in the all-England championship, the trio to form the big Australiasian team that will engage for the Davis cup.

Scoring Rules Need Revision

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The suggestion of President Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, that the playing rules be revised next winter at a convention of managers, umpires and newspaper men was endorsed today by President Murphy, of the local National league team.

"It has been my belief for several years that the playing rules are badly in need of re-codifying," said Murphy. "It looks especially bad to have the rules governing balks interpreted differently in two major leagues.

"I believe that a committee comprising all major league managers and umpires and leading scorers would be unwieldly. A dozen men would do the work better. I think the meeting should be financed by the national commission as the experts would be performing a great service. The playing rules could be thoroughly discussed and overhauled to the great benefit of the national game in from ten days to two weeks, I believe."

Ump Has Resigned

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Umpire McGreevy, of the American league, resigned toda ybecause of the illness of his wife. The vacancy will not be filled.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Georgia-Raised Cows and Calf Feed and the Opportunities Offered the Georgia Farmer

IF THE farmers of this state only realized it they are in position to produce cheaper beef, with our home-grown feeds, and of a better quality than any other section of the United States; for instance, no one will dispute that cotton seed meal puts the fat and a finish on beef cattle at less cost than any other food known. If this was not the case the majority of the western breeders would not use this meal to finish up their fancy show herds at the annual livestock show held in Chicago. They pay the freight and feed it like it was gold in very limited quantities.

We further know that as a butter producing feed nothing can touch cotton seed meal. If one does not believe this, let him leave it out of his cow's rations for a few days and see how she will decrease in butter production. The hulls, when used with judgment, are equally as good in their place. We have never appreciated cotton seed hulls and meal and their value, or have we realized how to get the largest per cent or cent out of the amount we feed. We have fed with a wasteful hand this most valuable feed instead of getting its full value by balancing this ration with some other feeds. Many have fed it to excess with injurious effects; in a limited way, the same as with all other good things when judgment is not used in its use.

We have a country capable of producing as heavy yields of oats and corn as any section of the United States. The same thing can be said of alfalfa, and possibly a few more tons better quality hay can be had on Georgia soil per acre than most any other section of the world.

By using for dairy cattle corn ensilage, thirty pounds per day, alfalfa hay fifteen to twenty pounds per day, with four to six pounds of cotton seed meal sprinkled on the ensilage or alfalfa hay, we have a perfect balanced dairy ration; the cheapest that can possibly be had when grown at home, and one that will give the heaviest possible yield of milk.

In feeding young growing animals, less cotton seed meal should be used and some ground oats and corn substituted, say four pounds of oats and corn ground together, two pounds of cotton seed meal and as much ensilage or alfalfa as the animals will eat up clean. For feeding beef cattle, by growing them up to a certain size on alfalfa and shredded corn, they can be finished ready for the butcher in a short time by the use of cotton seed hulls, ensilage and alfalfa hay, and cotton seed meal or ground corn with an occasional feed of ground oats mixed with it. With this variety and fed properly, beef cattle can be made to gain very fast, and a quality of beef produced, if from the right kind of high grade animals that would be fit in quality to go to the New York market, or exported to foreign countries, and bring the very highest prices.

These feeds can be had at every farmer's door in Georgia at a price that they can certainly be converted into beef at a handsome profit. Why more farmers have not used these feeds and have a lot of beef cattle has been a mystery to me. If the western farmers can do so and buy our feed to finish up their animals with and ship this beef back to us every day, why cannot we do so?

Another big mistake that is being made by the southern farmers is allowing the veal calves by the thousands to be killed. It certainly is a wasteful state of affairs. By using the cream of which there is such a splendid market throughout the entire south, even for butter making, and taking the skimmed milk to feed calves, it can be mixed with one part ground corn and fed to baby calves, remembering a small amount of blood meal in the skimmed milk and when it is added to the other ingredients it would make a feed equally as good as whole milk itself and the thousands of veal calves that now go to the butcher could soon be put on a safe road to growing and be worth ten times as much at two years or three months as they now sell from.

This saving alone to Georgia would amount to several millions of dollars per year that is now wasted. Alfalfa hay alone, of the best quality and full of leaves, such as most Georgia grows, will make an even balanced ration for young calves after they are three months old. With a little shelled corn and well cured alfalfa hay they will certainly thrive and do well even on this ration after they have been started with the above mentioned feed.

Cows that have been on an alfalfa ration, or on good pasture will produce strong calves, but cotton seed meal should not be given to cows for at least one month before or one month after calving, or while nursing young calves. This can be easily managed by using judgmeat in this respect and hundreds of strong calves can be saved that are lost at present by using the above feeding ration. Any one that has ever traveled would soon be on the road to making good beef and good dairy cows for this state. There is not one sundredth part enough cattle in Georgia and if judgment for a few months at calving time is used we would have ten calves to consume hulls and meals later as grown animals to where we now have one.

The small farmer is the one by which this supply must be produced, and in sections that can afford should be established creameries. It would encourage the dairy industry and this skimmed milk could be utilized for starting calves and could be sold to the farmers for almost a trifle. After the calves have been started with good pasturage there is never much trouble to bring them to maturity, and with our supply of feed, hulls and meal to feed them on, we should be producing our own beef instead of buying it as we are now doing.

Yours very truly,

YOUR COMFORT

IF YOU live on the north or south side, let us have your order before 9 o'clock, or if you are in Inman Park or West End, give your order before 2 o'clock and they will be delivered the same day we receive them. Please bear this in mind, it will insure you prompt service.

WE HAVE gotten in our fine importation of bulbs and they are the largest and best we have had for years. We import all of our bulbs direct from France and Holland, and they come from the best growers. It is time now to plant Paper White Narcissus, White Roman Hyacinths and Freesias. If you plant bulbs get your seeds from Hastings and know you are getting the best.

THE BEST authorities on poultry raising claim that hens should be fed very little corn during the moult and that wheat is the very best feed during the moulting season. It is usually pretty hard to get good sound wheat at a reasonable price. We have bought one hundred bushels of extra fine stock and as long as it lasts we will sell it at $1.50 per bushel. You had better get a bag of this.

IF YOU love Canary birds it will pay you to come to our store and see the beautiful lot of songsters we have. They certainly are little beauties and going at $2.50 each. Guaranteed singers.

Plan Manufacturing and Warehouse District on Manhattan Avenue—West Peachtree and Other Sales—Baptist Tabernacle Leased to Dental College — Extensive Subdivision Opened on South Moreland Avenue—Other Notes

The Robert A. Ryder Realty company, through T. J. Shepard, has sold for Arthur S. Harris to a client a parcel on Manhattan avenue, formerly Mechanic street, for around $9,000.

Negotiations are now on for a five-year lease of this property to a light manufacturing concern. Improvements will be made on the building, making it suitable for manufacturing purposes.

A plan is on foot now to make Manhattan avenue a manufacturing district. This street is near the half-mile circle, and ends at the Western and Atlantic railroad and is close to the Southern and A. B. & A.

Plans for remodeling of the buildings on the street are being made and negotiations are being opened with concerns seeking manufacturing or warehouse locations.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

T. C. Wesley and James H. Bennett have sold to Mike Hudson a residence property on West Peachtree street for a consideration of $9,000.

This property is on the east side of the street, 50 feet south of Ruggles street. The lot is 40x150.

R. L. Turman, of the Turman, Black & Calhoun agency, has sold for J. A. Browning to a client No. 54 East Eleventh street, a six-room cottage on a lot 50x142 between Peachtree street and Piedmont park, for $5,000.

The Martin-Ozburn Realty company has sold for Cowan, Dunn & Yarbrough to Mrs. Dora Stevens No. 419 Greenwood avenue, a bungalow, on a lot 50x150, for $4,250.

OLD TABERNACLE LEASED.

P. L. Turman, of the Turman, Black & Calhoun agency, has leased the former Baptist Tabernacle property to a dental college. The term of the lease is for five years and the consideration is $2,400 a year.

Dr. A. P. Manhart, of the Southeastern Dental university, is the lessee. The property consists of a two-story brick building on a lot 104x184 at Luckie street and Tabernacle place. The building will be converted into a dental college.

SUBDIVISION NOTES.

The Atlanta Development company is carrying on an extensive residence subdivision development on South Moreland avenue. The subdivision comprises thirty-three acres of what was once the Kimballville farm, which the present owners bought from the Southern Mortgage company.

There will be 145 lots in all, and the improvements will cost about $20,000. Work has been going on since January.

One of the things which is being done is the extension of Boulevard DeKalb through this property to Moreland avenue, making a continuous driveway from East Lake. The walks, water and sewer are being laid and extensive grading is being done.

The property begins two blocks south of DeKalb avenue and has about 900 feet of frontage on Moreland avenue. The lots will be offered complete to home builders.

The same company owns forty lots on Drewry street, and has sold eleven of them in the past three weeks. Eight new houses have been built on this street in the past few months, and plans are being made for additional ones.

The company has printed a booklet, which, while advertising its own property, offers interesting statistics on the real estate growth of Atlanta.

MANY TRANSFERS FILED.

Thursday's volume of property transfers was the largest that has gone to record in several weeks.

Included in the record was a large number of parcels that go to make up the Walker street industrial development. There were in addition several bonds for title representing new transactions and an unusual number of loan deeds.

There was considerable variety also in the DeKalb county transfers, which show a steady increase from day to day.

THE BOAT WAS COMPLETELY UNDER WATER FOR SEVENTEEN DAYS AND EVERY PASSENGER BUT ME WAS DEATHLY SICK - I WAS THE ONLY ONE IN THE DINING ROOM AND HAD TO EAT TEN MEALS A DAY TO KEEP THE FOOD FROM SPOILING
THE SHIP'S DOCTOR AND EVERY MEMBER OF THE CREW WERE HOVERING BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH - I FELT ELEGANT ALL THE TIME
I HEARD THAT THE MAN WITH THE FUNNY NOSE WHO WALKS AROUND THE DECK WITH THE LADY WHO OWNS THE FOX TERRIER IS NOT IN THE FISH BUSINESS AT ALL - HE IS A SECOND STORY WORKER IN KANSAS CITY
I'M THE GUY
DON'T DRINK YOUR TEA SO FAST - JUST SIP IT SO WE'LL HAVE MORE TIME TO TALK ABOUT THE OTHER PASSENGERS
FINALLY THE CAPTAIN GOT SICK AND I HAD TO GO UP ON THE BRIDGE AND RUN THE BOAT FOR HIM
EXCUSE ME A MINUTE
IT MUST BE THAT SAUSAGE I HAD FOR BREAKFAST THIS MORNING
BUT WE DIDN'T HAVE SAUSAGE FOR BREAKFAST THIS MORNING
LITTLE DANGER SIGNAL, WHO ARE YOU ?
I'M THE GUY THAT PUT THE SIP IN GOSSIP

"A Perfect Woman Nobly Planned To Warn, to Comfort and Command"

Nature never intended woman to be delicate, ailing, or a sufferer from "nerves." Women in middle age complain of "hot flashes." Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood, and from motherhood to middle life, with backache, or headache, dizziness, faintness, or bearing-down sensations. For a permanent relief from these distressing symptoms nothing is so good as
